VARE ADMITS SIGNING NOTE OF A BACKER FOR $100,000

Winner of G. O. P. Senate Nomination in Pennsylvania Recalls Going on Another $50,000 Note.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Testimony given today before the Reed campaign fund investigating committee of the Senate brought to light another generous "angel" of the recent Republican primary in Pennsylvania, the total known cost of which now stands in round figures at $2,000,000. The morning session of the committee was marked by a continuation of the cross-examination of Representative William S. Vare, begun last night, and by a savage grilling of Thomas F. Watson, former city treasurer of Philadelphia and the treasurer of the winning Vare campaign for the senatorial nomination.

Albert M. Greenfield, a Philadelphia real estate man and bank
officer, was the angel of the Vare campaign to the extent of at least $125,000.

Previous testimony had put him down for a contribution of $10,000.
Today it was shown that he made no further donations in cash, one of $85,000 and another for $30,- 000. Both these sums were placed usually in a safe in Watson's office.

Benjamin Knowlton About $25,000.
Much of the session was taken up with a vain effort to get Watson
to tell the source of a mysterious $25,000 which he said had accumulated in his safe.

Read went after the witness in rough-and-tumble fashion. Again and again he demanded to know
just how the $25,000 had got there.
The witness each time replied that he did not know.

"You know where it came from,"
demanded Reed, wrathfully. "No, I don't know."

"Did anybody shove it under your door?" "No, sir."

"And so you can't tell where you got that $25,000?" "No, sir."

The examination was in that line for half an hour. Finally Reed got up and left the room, remarking in a tone of disgust, that any other committee member who saw him go on with "this gentleman" might do so. He was gone about five minutes, during which time Senator McNary carried on the probing without revealing anything new.

"You had money in the bank,
where it was safe and took it to your office?" he asked.

"Yes, I accumulated the $25,000
because I did not want to send a check as I did not want it to appear I had contributed $25,000 to the campaign," Watson finally said.

30,400 PERSONS MET DEATH IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS IN A YEAR

By the Associated Press.
Washington, June 15.—
WORLD survey showing that about 30,400 persons were killed and $88,000
injured in automobile accidents
last year was made public today by Charles M. Ppham, managing director of the American Road Builders' Association.

Accidents in the United States accounted for more than 80 per cent of the fatalities, he said, placing the United Kingdom second with 968, followed by France with 723 and Canada with 700.

POLISH GENERAL AND COUNT FIGHT BLOODLESS DUEL

Szeptycki's First Shot
Misses. Whereupon Skrzynski Lowers Pistol
and Refuses to Fire.

By the Associated Press.
WARSAW, June 15.—Count
Skrzynski, former Foreign Minister and Gen. Szeptycki, who quarreled over the recent Pilsudski coup
d'etat, fought a duel with revolvers
today in a friend's house in Warsaw. The general's bullet missed, and Skrzyński refused to shoot.
Skrzynski's seconds were two officers close to Marshal Pilsudski named Drezner and Kutrzeba.
Szeptycki's seconds were Wod-zinski, a prominent member of the Cracow aristocracy, and a Colonel Jurkiewicz, one of the best known sportsmen of Warsaw, was umpire.

The duel was held in the presence of a crowd and a court of honor. The principals agreed to fire a single shot each, at a distance of 15 paces.

At the signal "Fire!" Szeptycki turned and fired. His bullet grazed Skrzynski's hair and buried itself
in the wall of the room.

Skrzynski refused to fire.
Skrzynski lowered his revolver and said: "I wish to state that I deliberately do not want to shoot.
If there is anyone here who thinks
it is necessary to defend his honor or takes issues with my ideals, let him shoot. But I shall not shoot."

The duel ended without the principals shaking hands.
Skrzynski has the reputation of being a dead shot. When friends called upon him after the duel, he said: "I don't know how to miss,
and I did not want to kill my challenger's friend and a court of honor. In whose veins flows the blood of my forefathers?" Szeptycki is a distant relative of the former Premier.

A further reason for Skrzyński's facing death from an adversary who at first refused to accept his challenge, friends said, and then withholding fire, was because to have killed or wounded the General would have precipitated wholesale dueling within the army.

Quarrel Dates From Last June.
The quarrel between Count Skrzyński and General Szeptycki grew out of a meeting between the two men early in June when the latter refused to shake hands. The general called the Count a coward for failing to reply to newspaper attacks made by Marshal Pilsudski against the Order of Polish Officers who conferred on West Point.

Skrzynski then challenged the general but the duel did not take place at that time because of the difficulties of obtaining seconds. At length Skrzyński suggested that the matter be dropped until a court of arbitration could rule on the delicate point of the code of dueling involved in the matter. This court yesterday ruled that the count's challenge was issued "in strict accordance with the code of honor,"
within 24 hours after the dispute which took place at Cracow.

10,000 IN LINE IN GAY PARADE OF THE GROTTOS

Lodges in Uniforms and Drill Teams Compete for $3000 in Prizes.

MANY DECORATIONS
ON LINE OF MARCH

Progress of Procession Marked by Unusual Stunts of Marchers;
Thousands Witness Event

With trumpet and drum, and with uniforms hardly less loud, the parade of the Mystic Order, Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm,
one of Masonry's most festive branch organizations, started from Twelfth boulevard shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, and was viewed by thousands who lined the sidewalks and crammed into windows along the line of march.
Officers of the order estimated that 10,000 of the black-fuzzed Prophets were in line.

Nearly 200 different uniformed units appeared in the parade. They represented grottos for small parts of the United States and some parts of Canada, and they came to St. Louis in the last three days, by rail and highway. Including members of the Prophets' families who accompanied them, the visitors are believed to number 30,- 000.

The parade route, from Twelfth boulevard and Olive street, was east on Olive to Broadway, north on Broadway to Washington avenue, west on Washington to Twelfth, south on Twelfth to Locust, west on Locust and Lindbergh to Vandeventer avenue, south on Vandeventer to West Pine, west to Kingshighway and south on Kings-highway to Laclede avenue.

Red and purple, red and black,
and various combinations of yellow were favorite color schemes in the uniforms of the successful
suzouave and patrol bodies which,
with their own bands blaring before them, drew thousands of store and office workers to windows in the downtown district. Many thousands stood on the sidewalks for more than an hour waiting for the procession to pass.

$3000 in Prizes Awarded.
Downtown and on the way west
to Grand boulevard, the marching Prophets, many of them middle-aged, and not a few with white hair, proved that "boys will be boys" by various specialties not on the parade program. But as they approached the reviewing stand, at the old St. Louis Club on Lindell boulevard, they straightened up and bore themselves with military precision.

For the United States Army officers, were waiting there, to award
some $3000 worth of trophies to various grottos, on the merits of their displays.

W. W. Martin of Doniphan, Mo., grand marshal, and his aids, rode
in a sedan, but the competing teams, and most of the Prophets, were on foot. The weather, from the standpoint of the uniformed promenader, was just about perfect.

For all the fine weather many did choose to walk before the time set for the parade, and automobiles bearing the sign "Prophets Ride Free" had all the load that their tires and springs would sustain.

Streets, not only downtown, but some residence portions of the line of march, were decorated with the Persian orange and light blue of the Grotto insignia, and with the flags showing a bearded Moslem face, and the names, borrowed from Oriental lore, of the various grottos represented here.

Program for Public.
Tonight's feature, the choral club contest and organ recital in Scottish Rite Cathedral, will be open to the public, as well as to the members of the grottos and their families. Among the singing organizations which have entered are those of Achbar Grotto, Columbus, and several other Ohio organizations, and Media Grotto of Topeka. The Alhambra Grotto Choral Club of St. Louis will not be a contestant, but will sing several selections, and will join in the massed chorus, to be directed by Prof. F. V. P. Hillgardt. Charles Galloway of St. Louis will be judge of the contest. The organ recital will follow the contest will be given by O. Wade Fallert, leader of the contest.

A reception and ball at Hotel
Chase and the grand monarch's
full form ceremony, at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue, are added events of tonight.

While the singers can show their skills, the ball will be a social feature.

KNEELING THOUSANDS WATCH CARDINALS PASS

Imposing Reception to Visiting Prelates on Way to New York City Hall, Where Gov.
Smith Formally Welcomes Them.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 15.—With thousands kneeling on the sidewalks in obeisance or cheering
them, eight cardinals of the Catholic Church, resident in their red robes or garbed in somber black,
rode through the streets today and were officially welcomed at City Hall by Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Mayor James J. Walker.

Traffic was rerouted and from the Archbishop's residence of Cardinal Hayes to City Hall the streets were decorated with the papal colors, yellow and white.

As the prelates emerged from Cardinal Hayes' home they were greeted with huzzas. The cries of acclaim that greeted their appearance in upper Madison avenue were taken up and passed along the line
to City Hall, so that the crowds were cheering long before the cardinals had come into sight.

As the foreign cardinals gathered at City Hall, Thomas L.
Heylen, Bishop of Namur, who will preside at the Eucharistic Congress, arrived on the steamer Pen-nland. A large delegation was at the pier to greet the man, who has presided over Eucharistic Congresses for twenty years.

With Msgr. Heylen was the Rt.
Rev. Arthur Doubleday, Bishop of Brentwood, the personal representative of Cardinal Bourne of London, Primate of English Catholics.
The two prelates were accompanied by a large retinue.

Greeted by Governor.
At City Hall the Cardinals were ushered into the aldermanic chamber. Gov. Smith stepped forward, knelt and kissed the rings on the fingers of Cardinals Bonzano and Hayes. Then in a voice inaudible, even to those near him, the Governor gave his personal welcome to the Cardinals.

John, Cardinal Bonzano, papal
legate, took his seat on a throne decorated in cardinal red. At his left sat Cardinal Hayes of New York.

turned him over to the police. An

DEFENSE PROTESTS
SUM IS EXCESSIVE

Will Appeal if Verdict Is Not Set Aside—Plaintiff Glad of Vindication After All Her Trouble.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Mrs. Elsie Hinman Dula was awarded $100,000 damages in her alienation suit for $250,000 against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Dula, widow of Robert B. Dula, vice-president of the American Tobacco Co., and a former St. Louisan, when a sealed verdict returned late yesterday was opened in Justice Crane's court at 10 o'clock this morning. The verdict for Mrs.
Dula, who recently obtained a separation from her husband, Robert B. Dula, is one of the largest ever returned in an alienation suit.

When the verdict was announced,
defense counsel, moved to set it aside as excessive. Justice Crane reserved decision. It was indicated that the verdict, if upheld by Justice Crane, would be appealed.

Second Victory for Wife.
This is the second legal victory which the young Mrs. Dula has scored over her husband and his family within a month. A few weeks ago Supreme Court Justice Prosser granted her a separation and allowance of $5000 a year, but Mrs. Dula is not now receiving this allowance pending an appeal on the ground that it is excessive. Meantime she is receiving $35 a week
granted by her pending settlement.

The elder Mrs. Dula was not in court when the verdict was read.
The young Mrs. Dula, becoming giddy in a tan pongee suit, with tan straw hat, said she was tired after her seven days of the trial and was going to Southbury,
Conn., to rest at the old family home and to her and a brother
by their mother.

"I am happy at the verdict because it means a complete vindication for me after all the ill-treatment I have received at the hands of the Dula family," she said.

Dula Accuses Each Other.
During the trial the young Mrs.
Dula and her husband each took the stand to charge the other with drunkenness during their brief life together. The plaintiff charged that she hit her on the head with a bottle. He charged that during a trip abroad his wife stayed out all night and "caroused all over Montmartre." The mother-in-law denied causing the marital troubles
between her son and his wife.

Dula, again on the stand yesterday as a witness for his mother-in-law, contradicted statements of his wife's counsel that he had never done any work, and said he had worked from the time he left college until he and Mrs. Dula separated in 1922. He earned $23 a week in a candy factory in Virginia.

"What did you do?" asked the counsel. "I just looked around to see how they made candy," he replied.

Mrs. Dula testified she did not attack her husband on board ship returning from Paris, but he attacked her. Four stewards answered her screams and it took their combined strength to subdue
him, she said.

FRENCH CABINET FOLLOWS PERET IN RESIGNATION

Members Unanimous in Decision to Give President Doumergue Full Liberty of Action.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 15.—Aristide
Briand's ninth Cabinet has ended.
The ministry's resignation was placed in the hands of President Doumergue at 7 o'clock this evening.

A communique was issued stating that the Cabinet was unanimous in its decision. The ministers, after examining the situation caused by the resignation of Finance Minister Peret this morning, decided it was best to give President Doumergue full liberty of action.

The reasons for Peret's resignation were considered in authoritative circles to be two-fold:
Firstly—Premier Briand's refusal to enlarge the ministry and make it a "national union cabinet" representing all parties, along the lines of the war cabinet.

Secondly—The violent opposition against a project, attributed to Peret, which is regarded as disguised inflation. The project would recommend that all short-term bonds and the existing fiduciary circulation be declared to form a whole—meaning that holders of short-term bonds asking reimbursement would be paid in fresh issues of paper money.

The French franc, which went as low as 25.39 to the dollar during the afternoon, closed on the Bourse at 35.64. It closed at 35.49 yesterday. The resignation of Finance Minister Peret seemed to have little effect upon the exchange. The improvement in the franc was subject to the late afternoon was due largely to heavy buying by American and British tourists and by French importers having mid-June obligations to meet or making provisions for settlements at the end of the month.

FIREMEN'S INCREASE IN WAGES IS UPHELD

State Supreme Court Orders Estimate Board Here

TOTAL OF $332,500
IS DUE IN BACK PAY

Contention That Aldermen Alone Can Legislate for St. Louis Denied— Tax
Limit No Obstacle.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 15.—
Validity of a city ordinance adopted by voters of St. Louis in April, 1925, through the initiative, granting an increase of $25 a month in salaries of all Fire Department employes up to the rank of district
chief, was sustained by Missouri
Supreme Court en banc in an opinion today, at the Judges concurring.

The decision increases the city's payroll about $285,000 a year and,
being retroactive, will result in the payment of about $332,500 in back pay due to the firemen since April 17, 1925, when the ordinance became effective. Each of 950 firemen will receive $250 in back pay.
Salaries of privates were increased from $155 to $180 a month by the ordinance.

The court granted a peremptory writ of mandamus sought by the city firemen, to compel the St. Louis Board of Estimate and Apportionment to include the salary increase in the city budget, and to submit to the Board of Aldermen an appropriation bill providing for the increase. The ordinance was ignored by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, following its passage on the ground it was illegal.

Aldermen Not Supreme.
Judge F. E. Atwood, who wrote the opinion, overruled in sharp language an assertion by attorneys for the city, in attacking the ordinance, that the people had surrendered their right to adopt ordinances by the initiative, through city charter provisions vesting the legislative authority in the Board of Aldermen. The city's attorneys contended these provisions had taken from the people their direct legislative power, leaving them only the power to propose, and the Board of Aldermen was subject to Immunity of the charter. The two sections must be read together, he said.

Power of the people to adopt ordinances by the initiative was as positively reserved in the charter
as the power to propose them, he stated. To hold that the initiative section of the charter was abrogation of this power, he said, was to hold that the people had surrendered their right to legislate.

Oil Company's refinery at Wood River yesterday. Two men are at the hospital seriously burned, but are expected to recover.

Officials of the plant today attributed the explosion to an unusual combination of atmospheric conditions, the escape of petroleum gases from a still and the chance overflow of liquid asphalt from a mixing drum.

The atmospheric conditions, it is believed, caused the gases to gather close to the ground and when a flash to the mixing drum
which it overflowed. The mpy were burned in the first flash of flame.

Dead and Injured.

Joseph Luppens, 25, 959 Whitelaw avenue, Wood River, and William H. Koehne, 39, of 309 Lorena avenue, Wood River, were burned to death instantly. Frank
M. Girard, 25, of 218 Seventh street, Wood River, died on his way to Alton hospital, and Harry Kingery, 25, of East Alton, died at 9
p. m. Huff died at 1 a. m. today.

The injured are Harold R.
Bryant, 21, of 159 St. Louis road,
Wood River, and Alcid Brandt, 21, of Upper Alton. Two other men were treated at the plant for slight burns.

Koehne was in charge of the mixing drum and the other workmen were engaged in changing pipe work on a nearby still. The fire did not penetrate to the inside of the mixing drum but spread to two open-top oil tanks, the contents of which were destroyed.

The blaze was extinguished after employees of the plant fought it for two hours with sand, water and steam.

Ignited by a Flash.

An official at the plant described the accident to a Post-Dispatch reporter as follows:
"At about 1:30 o'clock this morning a flash of liquid asphalt drum overflowed. There was a flash of some kind. Evidently the weather conditions were just right and fire probably communicated from nearby stills. Vapors or gases seem to have gathered close to the ground and evidently the flash was so hot that it set every thing on fire.

"The mixing drum holds between 8000 and 10,000 gallons of liquid.
There was no rupture of any vessel of the apparatus and the explosion which preceded the fire was entirely external. The fire communicated to two open-top oil tanks holding about 1000 gallons each.

"Koehne was the only man employed at the mixing drum. The others were mechanics employed in changing the pipe work of other apparatus. An employee reported that he saw them enveloped in flame a moment after a flash jumped from a still to the mixing drum.

Property Loss $2000.

"The property loss was about $2000. Within 100 feet of the fire were six large stills. The employees entered willingly into the work of extinguishing the fire and equipment from adjoining plants was quickly loaned. The fire at the mixing drum was quickly extinguished, but the two oil tanks burned for two hours."

The five deaths were the first at Standard plant for many years.
The number of dead and injured,
it was stated, was more than the total of all those injured last year.
The Wood River plant is one of the largest refineries in the country, the second largest operated by the Standard Oil Co. It covers 180 acres and employs approximately 1600 persons.

Immediately after the fire was extinguished workmen began to clear away the debris.

Runaway Boy Happy; He Saw Ruth Hit a Homer

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

"RUSTY" QUEEN AND "BABE" RUTH.

Clarence Queen, 12, Who Made Way Across State From Springfield, Mo., Goes to Ball Game With Reporter.

Life has taken on a new meaning for Clarence Queen, 12 years old, better known as "Rusty," in his home town, Springfield, Mo.
Yesterday morning he was a prisoner in the House of Detention here, the laughing stock of the other boys there, who jibed at him mercilessly for running away from home and working his way across the State to St. Louis just to see "Babe" Ruth play baseball.

But by sundown, "Rusty" considered himself of some importance. He had seen and talked to the great slugger. He had had his photograph taken with the "Babe's" arm around his shoulders. He had heard Ruth ask for a new white baseball and had seen him pen on it, "To my pal, Rusty Queen, from Babe Ruth."

And, to cap it all, he had seen
Mr. George Herman Ruth hit one of his famous home runs, the twenty-second of this season.

Picked up by Policeman.

"Rusty" had been picked up by a policeman at 3:30 a. m. Sunday on his way to the ball game. He was going to be in time for the Sunday game. But when the policeman laid a hand on his shoulder it seemed as if the boy's trip
from Springfield, by borrowed rides and other devices, had gone for naught.

While "Rusty" was being held up for his parents, his story turned up in the police reports. As a result, a Post-Dispatch reporter called at the House of Detention and borrowed the young prisoner
for a trip to the ball game.

Yes, it was a great day for "Rusty." He had scrubbed his face
until his snub nose fairly shone,
and his Boy Scout uniform had been neatly brushed. In his hand, as befits a wanderer who is polite
even on the road, he carried the celluloid eyeshade which served him as a cap.

"I don't follow major league baseball much," he volunteered on the way to the park. "All I care about is George 'Babe' Ruth, you know. I don't even play ball myself, but I gave my Boy Scout team

NEGRO LYNCHED IN KENTUCKY
AFTER HE SHOT OFFICER

Ex-Convict Resisted Arrest When Sought on Charge of Killing His Wife.

By the Associated Press.
GUTHRIE, Ky., June 15.—Tris-mus Kirby, 35 years old, a Negro,
was lynched on the Elkton road
two and one-half miles from here early today.

Police officers had come here to arrest Kirby on a charge of killing his former wife, Parthenia Kirby, at Earlington, Monday. Chief of Police Mimms and B. H. Kelly had gone to the front door of Kirby's mother's home and Edwin Bring-hurst went to the rear. The Negro shot Bringhurst in the stomach, dangerously wounding him, and fled, but was arrested and officers started with him to the county seat
at Elkton, when a crowd of men fired a number of shots into his body.

JUSTIFIED IN KILLING PUGILIST, CORONER HOLDS

Verdict in Case of "Buddy" McHale Based Largely on Testimony of Woman
Witness.

HAD THREATENED TO KILL SALOON KEEPER

Street Brawl and Shooting Occurred After Evening of Rowdiness by McHale
and His Associates.

Coroner's verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today in the shooting of "Buddy" McHale, middleweight prize fighter and police character, in a street brawl at Jefferson and Cass avenue early yesterday.

Testimony indicated that McHale
and a group of rowdies had spent much of Sunday evening badgering William Costello, proprietor of a saloon on the southeast corner of Jefferson and Cass avenues, and had finally attacked him. One of them kicked him in the stomach and ground a heel into his mouth
as he lay on the sidewalk, it was shown. Costello fired after threats they won't let me play, anyhow."

Mrs. Mabelle Lucier, who lives across Jefferson avenue at 2604 A Cass avenue, testified she heard McHale and his associates say they would kill Costello for not serving them whisky, saying, "We'll get him — when he goes home."

Woman's Testimony in Case.

After an evening of intensive rowdiness, featured by the baiting
of policemen and insults to passing women, they finally pulled Costello from his automobile after he had closed his saloon, she said.

The witness declared they knocked Costello down, beat and kicked him and that one of the men should "knife him, knife him."
Costello finally got to his feet and she heard several shots.

Her testimony was confirmed in essentials by Joseph Calvert, Costello's bartender, and by Michael Russell of 4952 St. Louis avenue, who was on the corner waiting for a taxi when he saw one of Costello's assailants grind his heel into the saloon man's mouth as he lay on the sidewalk and Russell said the men beat and kicked Costello unmercifully.

Saloon Man Does Not Testify.

Costello, who was named by Mc-Hale just prior to his death as the slayer, did not testify.

McHale, who was 22 years old,
was really Walter Burgeyone Jr., of 2816 Howard street. He had adopted the name McHale as a ring sobriquet, and as such was generally known. He had been arrested 47 times and at the time of his death was under final sentences of four months for auto theft and one year for carrying concealed weapons.

Convict Attempts to Escape.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 15.—
Robert H. Hartsaw, convict from Jasper County, who attempted to escape over the wall of the Missouri penitentiary here early yesterday after saving his way out of a cell building, was found crumpled
in a small box in the prison foundry last night. Hartsaw saved his way out about 3:15 a. m. and ran to the wall near the main entrance of the prison. He threw a rope with a hook on the end of it over the wall and attempted to climb
over. A guard nearby reported that Hartsaw did not succeed, but dropped down and ran back into the prison yard.

VISITOR PLAYING ROLE OF TRAFFIC COP HIT IN FACE

Herbert Weaver of Knoxville, Tenn., Incurs Displeasure of Street Car Conductor.

Herbert Weaver, restaurant proprietor of Knoxville, Tenn., who is in St. Louis attending the Masonic convention of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, last night was struck in the face with a street car
transfer punch by a conductor
while he was entertaining himself and some friends by playing the role of traffic policeman at Sixth and Market streets.

He apparently incurred the displeasure of the conductor, who was on a westbound Laclede avenue
car, by holding up east and west traffic for a time. The car did not stop after the incident, but witnesses obtained the number. However, Weaver declined to prosecute.
Police said they intended forwarding a copy of the police report to United Railways officials.

$50,000 Jewel Robbery.

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—A pearl necklace valued at $25,000
and seven diamond rings and two jeweled wrist watches worth another $25,000 comprised the loot of a lone robber, who early today forced his way into the Lakewood home of Mrs. H. A. Parsons, widow of the Commodore of the Cleveland Yacht Club. Other jewelry worth several thousand dollars escaped the attention of the burglar when Mrs. Parsons, awakened by the intruder's flashlight, cried out and the man fled.

wares in an evening, the 40 visiting bands must take more time,

pieces, in the Municipal Theater.
Another competitive feature will be the contest of 17 drill teams,
in two divisions, on the drill
grounds in western Forest Park,
which will continue through tomorrow afternoon. United States Army officers will be the judges.
Boat excursions, luncheons, receptions and entertainments are on the program, which continues through Thursday. Tomorrow night
the Municipal Theater will entertain the Prophets and their guests exclusively. Forest Park Highlands has been engaged for each afternoon and evening.

Speeches of Welcome Open Business Session.

Some of the many Masonic visitors to St. Louis this morning turned their thoughts for a few hours to convention business, meeting at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenues, where the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Mystic Order, Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted
Realm, was formally opened.

The meeting was attended by the 850 authorized delegates to the convention, who represent Grottoes
in various parts of the United States and Canada. Monarch Alex-
s. Dawson of Alhambra Grotto, welcomed them for St. Louis Masons. Mayor Miller welcomed them for the general public, and Grand Master of Missouri Freemasons William W. Martin welcomed them for the 115,000 Masons of Missouri.

Grand Monarch George A. Treadwell of New Orleans, declared "it would be hard for any other city in the United States to equal the wonderful reception given the visitors in St. Louis." No detail had been overlooked, he said, in providing for the comfort and entertainment of the visitors.

Reports of the Grand Monarch, Grand Trustees, Grand Treasurer
and Grand Secretary were read.
They showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition both as to finances and membership. The organization of 13 new Grottoes
during the year was announced,
bringing the total to 180 Grottoes with approximately 250,000 members.

CAREFARE INCREASE HELD UP FOR MONTHS

Audit of U. R. Books for 1925
and 26 Ordered by Public Service Body.

An audit of the books of the United Railways Co. for 1925 and part of 1926 was ordered today by the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City in connection with the company's applications for an increase of fare from 7 to 8 cents.

The audit, which is expected to occupy the commission's accountants for three months, will delay action on the fare increase application for several months, as it is not probable that the commission will order a hearing until the details of the financial operation of the street railways properties are available.

Accountants will be instructed to inquire into all details of expenditures and receipts to determine accurately the operating results under the present fare.

The Commission's order becomes effective in 10 days, but it was stated at its offices today that the accountants may not be able to start work at that time, as they now are engaged on audits of other utilities. It is the Commission's purpose, however, to begin the United Railways work as quickly as possible.

SECRETARY OF UNION M. E. CHURCH DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Miss Louise Rickart, Who Had Held That Position 38 Years, Succumbs at Her Desk.

Miss Louise Rickart, for 38 years
secretary of Union Methodist Episcopal Church, died unexpectedly at her desk at 10 o'clock last night
during a special business meeting.
One of the trustees stepped into her office to obtain records and found she had fallen to the floor and was unconscious. Dr. L. E.
Bunte, who was present as a member of the board, gave her emergency medical treatment, but she died without regaining consciousness.

Miss Rickart was born at Car-rollville, Ill., in 1858 and became a member of the St. Louis Church in 1882, and secretary in 1888. She was personally acquainted with the family of Gen. Clinton B. Flak, one of the organizers of the church, with Gov. E. O. Stannard, George Warren Brown, and many prominent laymen, bishops and other church dignitaries.

She was a daughter of the late Wesley P. Rickart, member of the Merchants' Exchange and editor of the Masonic Constellation. She is survived by two brothers, Edwin and Lloyd H. Rickart; two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Dunham and Miss Florence Rickart, an aunt,
Miss Lin. Calvin, and a niece, Mrs.
C. O. Stevens. Funeral services will be at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at Union M. E. Church, followed by interment at Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Convention Sidelights.

An automobile driven by David McCready of 4819 Kansas avenue ran into a heavy barricade rope at Magnolia and Spring avenues at 10:30 p. m. yesterday, wrecked two lampposts to which the rope had been tied and knocked down Patrolman Fred Paschedag, who attempted to lift the rope to let the car pass. The barricade had been put up for the Masonic open air dance. Paschedag was treated at city hospital for bruises.

Mascots are popular among the delegates. "Jesse," a mule, accompanies Jinnistan Grotto of Los Angeles, and "Ram," a goat, marches with Kam Ram Grotto, Birmingham.

Jack Barnett of Akron, Ohio,
claims to be the smallest delegate.
He measures three feet in his socks and is 45 years old. He is adjutant of the Yusef Khan Grotto patrol.

Al Sirat Grotto, Cleveland, when on parade is led by the "Big Six."
The weight of the six is estimated at one ton and the shortest man is 6 feet three inches tall.

Kamram Grotto, Birmingham, claims to be the largest grotto in the world. Its convention contin-gent consists of eight uniform units, a ladies' auxiliary and a boosters' club. The grotto has 6,325 members.

Sahara Grotto, Indianapolis, has more than 900 delegates in the city, all in full uniform, including a band of 49 pieces, drum and bugle corps of 40 men, drill team, 50 men; ladies' drum and bugle corps, 34 members; a young ladies' drill team of 32 members, and a Kilty Band of 42 bagpipers.

Joseph B. Seiber, of Akron, grand marshal of the Yusef Khan Grotto drill team, is Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio.

Six Kentucky colonels, in full regalia, including goatees, lead the Blue-Grass Grotto in parade.

Delegates found "something with a kick" in the bar at Alhambra Grotto. An electric current is turned on when a foot touches the old brass rail of the old Liederkranz club.

Judge Fred Walther, of the Cleveland court of common pleas,
is with the Al Sirat Grotto delegation. He is a candidate for Grand Monarch for 1926-27.

The Al Sirat band is led by Carl Rupp, radio broadcaster and composer who has written a march dedicated to Judge Walther which will be played for the first time at the Municipal Theater tomorrow afternoon.

While various bands were making large-volume melody in the open air, the Nasir Grotto of Canton, O., rendered indoor music in a number of downtown offices this morning. Charles Lotts, trumpe-ter, used as a musical accessory a derby hat with perforated crown.
Carl Sanor undulated to the strains of his accordion, and George Shields plucked a banjo that fairly scintillated lyric strains. Their ac-tensions brought many encores.

GIRL, THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN KIDNAPED, FOUND

Phone Call Leads Police to Venetia Maher, 16, at Rooming House.

Miss Venetia Maher, 16 years old, of Caseyville, whose disappearance Thursday afternoon resulted in the arrest on an abduction charge of Dr. David Provan,
54 years old, of Caseyville and East St. Louis, was found today in an East St. Louis rooming house.

A telephone message to East St.
Louis police headquarters at 10:30
a. m. stated the missing girl could be found at a rooming house at 1731 Missouri avenue.

Mrs. Fred Bierman, who conducts the rooming house, said the girl was brought there Thursday afternoon by a tall, slim man with a Van Dyke beard, resembling Dr.
Provan. She said the man paid a week's rent, $5, in advance, and departed, without giving his or her name. The man returned for a visit Saturday evening.

Simplicity

means Surer Automatic Control
more Certain Service and Longer Life

The NU-WAY OIL BURNER is SIMPLE

De Luxe Finish

At increased cost the purchaser of a Nu-way may choose a porcelain enameled burner, with nickel and brass parts especially polished, in blue or ivory grey finish. A Nu-way with the De Luxe finish really makes it possible for you to furnish your basement luxuriously as you like, without one jarring note.

If you want the convenience of an oil burner and the comfort and health that accompany the even heat maintained by a perfectly functioning burner—

Then let's get down to the facts you want to know about an oil burner for your home. There are four fundamental laws that must not be violated if the combustion of oil is to be perfect.

- ① The oil must be broken up into fine particles—it must be atomized, not vaporized.
- ② This atomized oil must be mixed with sufficient air—enough air to supply the necessary amount of oxygen for perfect combustion.

③ This mixture of atomized oil and air must be burned in suspension.

④ It must burn in reflected heat—heat reflected from the fire-brick lining of your heating plant fire-pot.

Nu-way is one of the few burners in which are incorporated these four necessary, fundamental laws of oil combustion.

Five Great Features

1. Simplicity The Nu-way has fewer parts than other burners observing the four laws of combustion. Every step towards simplification in any mechanical device means a step towards greater dependence in service, surer automatic control, longer life. The Nu-way has no diaphragms, no intricate working parts, and the fewest possible number of parts.

2. Quietness By reason of its simplicity, the Nu-way Oil Burner is the quietest burner made that burns oil by the four fundamental laws of oil combustion. The mechanism is silent. The only sound is that of the blazing oil in the brick lined fire-pot.

3. Vibration Vibration means wear. The Nu-way Oil Burner runs without vibration. A penny stood on edge on the mechanism will remain there indefinitely, so free is the burner from vibration.

4. Perfectly Timed Ignition When the thermostat automatically starts the Nu-way Oil Burner, two things happen in perfectly timed sequence. An ignition system opens a gas valve and ignites the gas by an electric spark. Not until that gas has been burning five seconds does the mechanism start to discharge atomized oil into the fire box. This timing is as important on your oil burner as on your motor car. This means positive ignition and eliminates the expense of a continuous gas pilot light.

5. Positive Safety Devices The electrical safety devices on the Nu-way will shut off both the oil and the electricity in fifteen seconds time, should the burner fail to function exactly as it is supposed to. The Nu-way must either work right or it can't work at all.

Nu-way Accessories Made by Nationally Famous Firms

Nu-way engineers went to authoritative sources for the special accessories on the Nu-way Oil Burner. When you buy a Nu-way you buy a burner with a multiple reputation.

Honeywell Heating Specialty Company of Wabash, Indiana, make the automatic controls. The ignition coil—the one that insures a blaze in the fire-pot before the oil enters, is a product of Webster Electric Company, Racine, Wis. The motor is the famous wool packed sleeve type motor of Emerson Electric Company of St. Louis—a motor quieter than a ball-bearing motor and one that will run your burner 3,000 hours—four or five years—without fresh lubrication. Stromberg of carburetor fame makes the fuel feed device and the blower is the Sirocco type specially designed and made for Nu-way by the American Blower Company of Detroit.

A Size for Your Home

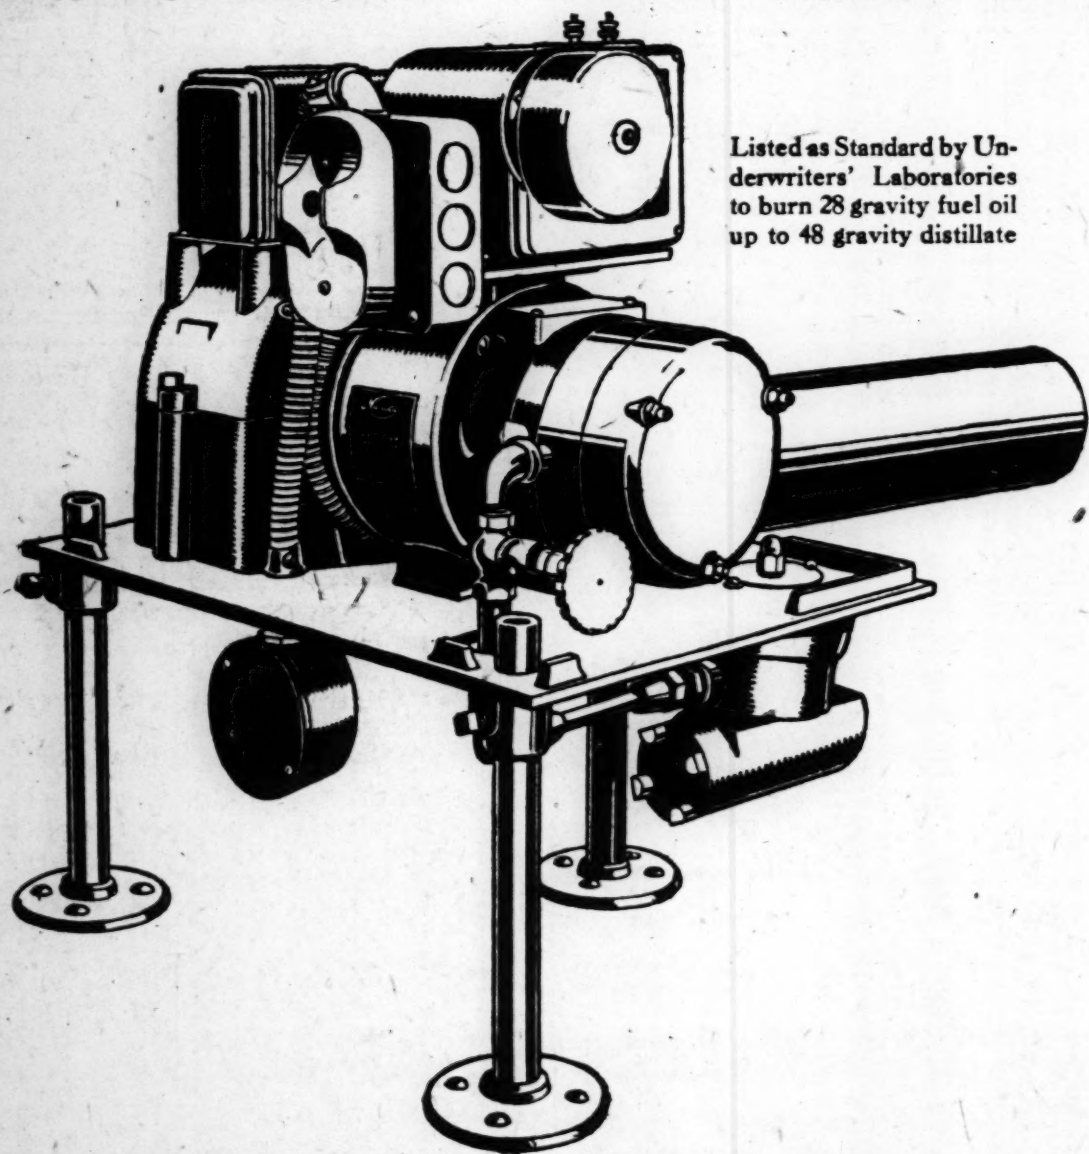

There are four sizes of Nu-way Oil Burners. This enables you to select a burner of the right capacity. No need to use a burner with twelve room capacity in a five room bungalow. No need to try to force a burner with twelve room capacity to heat a fifty apartment building. No other burner has the range of sizes offered by Nu-way.

Every Nu-way Tested by Actual Use

In the Nu-way testing room is a long row of furnaces of different types—hot air, steam, hot water. Not a Nu-way goes out until it has been connected with one of those furnaces and has functioned perfectly—absolutely automatically controlled by the safety device and the thermostat that would be placed in your home to start and stop the burner.

See the Nu-way

Come in and see Nu-way. Learn, from looking over this burner, why it will give you the most dependable service, at smallest upkeep, over the greatest number of years. See how easily it can be installed—just a few hours' work in your basement. No part of the burner inside your furnace. Investigate. Send coupon for literature. Be right in your selection of an oil burner. Buy Nu-way. You will if you know the burner. You owe it to yourself—and to your family—to know. So come in or send this coupon today.

PATRIOTISM RULES FLAG DAY MEETING OF GROTTOS

Grand Monarch of Masonic Order Emphasizes Need of Jury Duty and Observance of Law.

Patriotism and sociability were crowded into one evening by the visiting Prophets of the Mystic Order, a Masonic organization, who last night held a Flag day celebration in Scottish Rite Cathedral, Lindell boulevard west of Grand, and later took part in the Grand Monarchs' ball at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue.

Bands of six grottoes, one of them from St. Louis, furnished music for the patriotic gathering. One of the bands was from outside the United States, belonging to the grotto of Hamilton, Ont., but it joined in the playing of the patriotic airs of this country. Others were from Cleveland, Birmingham, Columbus and Toledo. The attendance exceeded the seating capacity of the auditorium, one of the largest in the city. The public was admitted.

George A. Treadwell of New Orleans, Grand Monarch of the order, delivered the Flag day address. Speaking to a gathering largely Masonic, he quoted at length the words of Albert Pike as to the Mason's duty to his country.

Emphasizes Civic Duty. "The true Mason," he recited in the words of Pike, "identifies the honor of his country with his own. Nothing more conduces to the beauty and glory of one's country than the preservation against all enemies of its civil and religious liberty. But it also conduces to the beauty and glory of one's country, that justice should always be administered there to all alike, and neither denied, sold, nor delayed to anyone; that the interest of the poor should be looked to, and none starve or be homeless, or clamor in vain for work; that the child and the feeble woman should not be overworked; and that God's great laws of mercy, humanity and compassion should be everywhere enforced, not only by the statutes, but also by the power of public opinion."

Applying the precepts of Pike and other patriots to the conditions of today, the grotto head emphasized the performance of ordinary civic duties, particularly the duty of jury service.

"The jury system, the palladium of liberty, is perhaps the most important foundation stone in our structure," he said. "Our civil courts function for the purpose of insuring justice between all men; and unless we recognize and honor our obligation to contribute our share towards justice between our neighbors, how can we expect them to become our mediator when we need them. Our criminal courts are clogged with boys and girls—maturing into men and women with no molding of character—morally spineless—following the apparently easy course of least resistance. Trained minds are needed to pass judgment upon them and differentiate between youthful thoughtlessness and misdirected exuberance of untrained spirits on the one hand and criminal and incorrigible traits and tendencies on the other."

Jury Duty Important. "And yet we endeavor to evade jury duty by every exaggerated excuse we can concoct, and we give to our own personal convenience and petty pleasures, more importance, and when we succeed in putting over some excuse for not serving, or when we go to some petty politician who gets us off, and so put ourselves under an obligation to him which we may have to pay at some sacrifice of principle we rejoice, we boast, we grate that we never have to serve."

"Yes, I know you have what you call a 'pull,' and if you are caught, you will boast that you 'got out of it,' or in other words that you were not manly enough to face the music and pay the penalty of your transgression. Did you ever stop to think of the example you are setting for that lad of your? He sees father 'put it over' and ignore and violate laws and rules and 'get by with it.'"

"Has his character and sense of proportion been molded to such an extent that he can be trusted to determine just which violations are peccadillos and which are unforgivable? Perhaps he conceives the idea that father is wasting his time in floundering such comparatively unimportant laws, and is foolish not to take advantage of evasion or violation of others by which a greater or more worthwhile or more direct personal gain or advantage can be had—for you have shown him you have contempt for law—and he tried it—and his violation cannot be overlooked."

Dancing in Street. Treadwell spoke of the number of "directly socialistic, anarchistic and communistic" organizations saying there were in the United States, in 1922, 16 such national organizations and 37 "propaganda agencies disseminating dangerous doctrines." At the same time, he said, 28 publications, nine of them dailies, were "using the United States mails to spread dangerous and subversive doctrines."

"Do you know," he continued, "that the Workers Party of America held its fourth national convention in Chicago in August, 1925 and that the report of the Central Executive Committee disclosed 15,000 members paid dues in the previous year, and funds of only $212,886.80 were contributed in 20 months; that they distributed only 8,540,000 propaganda leaflets in addition to the issuance of their daily organ? What are we, individually and specifically doing to combat and offset these things, either in service or financially?"

The ball, which lasted from 9 p. m. until early morning, overflowed Alhambra Grotto, Magnolia avenue, newly paved for the block west of Grand, was roped off from traffic and used by the dancers. Visiting bands furnished music for the outdoor dancers, while the Alhambra Grotto Band played in the hall.

FURNITURE MAN ENDS HIS LIFE WITH GAS

H. C. Westhus, 51, Had Been Suffering From Nervous Breakdown, Relatives Say.

The body of H. C. Westhus, 51 years old, secretary of the Westhus Furniture Co., 2101 South Broadway, was found yesterday on the second floor of the furniture company with a rubber hose, connected with an open gas jet, in his mouth. Westhus was unmarried and lived with a sister at 3914 South Grand boulevard.

The body was found by a brother, Edward W. Westhus, of 3818A Wilmington avenue, who went to the store to search for his brother after receipt of a telephone message from his sister that H. C. Westhus had not been home since Sunday noon.

A note, asking forgiveness of his family, was found beside the body, which was lying on a cot. Relatives told police Westhus had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for the last year.

FINE $500 FOR MAILING FALSE FINANCIAL STATEMENT
Head of Defunct Furniture Shop Penalized on Plea of Guilty of Fraud in Obtaining Credit.

A $500 fine was assessed yesterday by Federal Judge Davis against Bert F. Nofree, owner of the defunct Hanella furniture and antique shop, 4501 Washington boulevard, who pleaded guilty recently of sending a false financial statement through the mails to obtain credit from the J. Kennard Carpet Co.

The maximum penalty under this charge is five years in prison and a $2000 fine. Nofree obtained $18,000 in goods from several firms on the strength of false financial statements, according to Postoffice Inspectors. His company then went into bankruptcy.

THREE ST. LOUIS FUR FIRMS IN MERGER DEAL

Consolidation With Eastern Concern Expected to Strengthen Primary Market Here.

Announcement has been made of a consolidation and changes in ownership and management affecting the F. C. Taylor Fur Co., Foulke Fur Co. and Funsten Bros. & Co., all of St. Louis, and the Eltington-Schild Co. of New York City.

Nelson R. Darragh, president of the Taylor company, and Philip B. Foulke, president of the Foulke and Funsten companies and vice president of the Eltington-Schild Co., are in New York completing the deal, one result of which will be Foulke's removal from St. Louis to New York to live. The announcement given out in New York City follows:

"On account of the increase in volume of the business of Eltington-Schild Co., Inc., New York, both in American and foreign trade, Col. Philip B. Foulke, St. Louis, vice president of the company, will come to New York to take charge of buying and selling American raw furs handled by the company. At the same time it has been decided that the receiving business of Funsten Bros. & Co. and Foulke Fur Co. will be consolidated and operated under the name of Funsten-Foulke Fur Co.

Exchange of Interests.
"Arrangements have been made with Nelson R. Darragh, president of the F. C. Taylor Fur Co. of St. Louis, whereby Eltington-Schild Co., Inc., will acquire an interest in the F. C. Taylor Fur Co. and Nelson R. Darragh will acquire an interest in the Funsten-Foulke Fur Co. and will also assume the management of the company as well as of the F. C. Taylor Fur Co.

"It is planned that the entire receipts of furs of the Funsten-Foulke Fur Co. and F. C. Taylor Fur Co. will be sold at regular floor sales in St. Louis.

"Eltington-Schild Co., Inc., will maintain its branch in St. Louis for the purpose of buying American furs at the various floor sales.

The Sealskin Plant.
"The Foulke Fur Co.'s seal skin plant, which dresses, dyes and sells all of the United States Government's seal skins, is in no way connected with either F. C. Taylor Fur Co. or the Funsten-Foulke Fur Co. It will continue as a subsidiary of Eltington-Schild Co., Inc., and will be separated from the fur-receiving business."

The deal, according to Darragh, will strengthen the position of St. Louis as the largest primary market for raw furs by increasing the volume of furs received and sold here every season. The three St. Louis companies have assets totaling about $2,000,000. The Taylor company was established in 1871, the Funsten firm in 1881 and the Foulke company in 1921.

WHISKY TANK AND HOSE FOUND IN WALL OF GROCERY

Detectives Dig Through Plaster After Glass of Liquor on Counter Is Seized.

A 15-gallon copper tank and 30 feet of rubber hose, built into a wall and plastered over, served as a hiding place for whisky in the grocery of Joseph Chiana, 3140 Chouteau avenue, until yesterday, when police discovered it.

Detective Sergeant Coakley and his squad had visited the place a dozen times and failed to find any sign of liquor. Yesterday he found a glassful on the counter, he reported, and promptly began an extensive search. Tapping on the wall, his men found a hollow-sounding spot over a door and dug through the plaster and paper. They found the tank partly filled with whisky.

A hose led down from the tank to the baseboard, behind the baseboard to another room, where a tiny faucet was concealed in a dark corner near the floor. Another hose led to the top of the tank from a spot in the wall which had been plastered over. The detectives tore out tank and hose and arrested Chiana. Mrs. Susan Mitchell, owner of the building, who lives upstairs, said she did not know of the secret chamber. Chiana will have to vacate, she declared.

Bite of Cat Fatal.
By the Associated Press.
DANVILLE, Ill., June 15.—Malburn Reffet, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reffet, residing near Westville, is dead as the result of being bitten and clawed by a mad cat Sunday. He was playing in the yard when attacked by the cat, which severely lacerated his face. Several hours later symptoms of rabies developed.

KING AND QUEEN AT ROYAL ASCOT OPENING

England's Great Four Days' Social Event More Brilliant Than Ever.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 15.—England's great four days' social event, "Royal Ascot," began today. Fashionable crowds are now filling the numerous country homes of the wealthy near the race course, while thousands of persons made their way there during the forenoon.

The early outlook for the weather was not very promising this morning, for the sky was overcast and the winds came from the rainy quarter. Ascot-goers, however, are not easily daunted, and they were generally prepared to make the best of things.

King George and Queen Mary and the members of the royal family, undeterred by the weather, drove to the course from Windsor Castle in the traditional royal procession. The foreign visitors included numerous Americans, equally determined not to miss the day's races, rain or shine.

More Beautiful Than Ever.
Always beautiful, Ascot seemed today more beautiful than ever, with the royal box gleaming with white and gold paint and banks of flowers here and there, the whole being offset by the verdure of the trees and lawns.
Stores and vlands and beverages had been provided for the throngs, among the tempting dainties were two tons of strawberries, with a commensurate supply of cream. From the scene today it was difficult to realize that the main attraction at Ascot was nominally horseracing.

Nevertheless horse fanciers declared this season would be one of the best Ascots from the racing viewpoint seen in many years. All the great horses are entered in some of the numerous events.

There were 27 entries for the gold vase presented by King George. The St. James Palace Stakes and the Ascot Stakes also have good fields. Among the horses which are on the program to compete during the meeting are such prime performers as Colorado, Cornnach, Lex and Lancashire.

Miss Sport won the Ascot Stakes, feature of the opening day. Miss Sport is owned by H. L. Cottrill. C. M. Woolf's Catalin was second and M. M. Calman's Tournesol was third. Sixteen horses ran. Miss Sport, at odds of 10 to 1 against, won by a neck, while three-quarters of a length separated Catalin and Tournesol, against which the odds were, respectively, 10 to 1 and 100 to 14.

High Art won the Gold Vase. High Art, by Gainsborough, out of Whitetoe, is owned by Sir George Noble. F. W. Horlick's Mistle was second and Lord Roseberry's Bongrace, third. Fourteen horses ran. High Art, at 20 to 1 against, won by a length, while two separated the second and third. The betting against Mistle was 100 to 7, and against Bongrace 9 to 1.

Lord Woolavington's Coronach, winner of the Epsom Derby, won the St. James Palace stakes, beating Sir Abe Bailey's Lex by 20 lengths. Indus was third. The betting on Coronach was 6 to 1.

Party at Windsor Castle.
King George and Queen Mary are entertaining a large party at Windsor Castle, including Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. Later the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry will join the party. Nearby at Bagshot Park the Duke of Connaught is entertaining a large family gathering. Numerous prominent Americans have engaged country homes for the week, some of them renting for well up to $2000.

Alanson B. Houghton, the American Ambassador, and Mrs. Houghton and their daughter, Miss Matilda Houghton; Miss Helen Corcoran of San Francisco, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Foster of Boston, A. K. Macomber of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Cass Canfield, also of New York, are among the Americans who will see the show.

Modistes in London for many weeks has been creating frocks for England's greatest "show week." Costliness and radiance, yet almost severe simplicity, have been the keywords for most of the gowns which will be seen on the lawns in front of the royal enclosure during the meeting and at the various society functions in the neighborhood of Ascot while the season is on.

Great Display of Gowns.
Most women who can afford it, will wear a new frock each day and even the average racegoer wouldn't think of wearing the same hat two days handrunning. Crepe de chine, chiffon and georgette, in practically every color, are the favorite materials. Most gowns are made on straight lines with a flare effect in many cases. Some have bishop sleeves and many have no sleeves at all. Black gowns, worn chiefly to show off diamonds, have soft fur collars and girdles of velvet ribbon held with a diamond buckle.

The majority of skirts are short and plain with long bodices containing all sorts of fancy trimmings. Capes of the same material are considered almost necessary to complete the outfit. Hats range from small, tight-fitting ones to big wide-brimmed affairs trimmed with velvet or flowers. Parasols of every shade are fashionable.

Kleen-Heet

Comforting Certainty of Performance!

This—through more than six years—has been the satisfying experience of Kleen-Heet owners:

When they turned over to Kleen-Heet the heating of their homes, they promptly—and permanently—shed all their heating worries!
All that remained was to set the thermostat
—and to remember occasionally to order oil.

What matter freeze or thaw! Indoors,
where Kleen-Heet was, there was unvarying comfort. And more!—the ease of mind that comes with the perfect assurance that one's comfort will not fail.

With such a record, it is but natural that Kleen-Heet's engineering superiority among oil burners should be everywhere accepted.

And that Kleen-Heet should be so dom-

GERMAN CARDINAL FEARED MISQUOTING

War-time Experience Caused Von Faulhaber to Hide Identity in New York.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 15.—While hundreds of the lesser dignitaries
of the Roman Catholic church were arriving here from abroad on their way to the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, which begins Sunday, the roster of visiting Cardinals from abroad became complete with the arrival here under a rigidly preserved incognito of Michael Cardinal von Faulhaber. He arrived as Herr Prof. Dr. B. Michaelis, wearing the costume of an ordinary priest.

To keep his identity hidden throughout the voyage, the Cardinal did not wear the Cardinal's ring nor the purple about his collar. None of the passengers and few of the ship's officers knew that he was any more than the simple professor he professed to be. It was incorrectly reported Sunday that Cardinal von Faulhaber had arrived here.

His desire to slip into the country with as little notice as possible
was explained by officials of the Eucharistic Congress here to be the result of his having been misquoted in some newspapers during his visit here in the spring of 1923.

At that time he was quoted as having described the sinking of the Lusitania by the Germans during the war as a "crime." Because of his position as Archbishop of Munich, Bavaria, the quotation caused a mild furor in Germany.
When he returned to that country
he denied he had said such a thing. Instead, he said, he had called the sinking of the Lusitania
a "mistake." Father von Faulhaber has been quoted in dispatches
from abroad as having criticized the German republic and the overthrow of the Kaiser's Government.
He received the Iron Cross from the Kaiser during the war.

Knowing Cardinal von Faul-haber's wish to avoid any ceremony upon his arrival, no delegation was sent by Cardinal Hayes to meet him. Instead the day was devoted to the informal entertainment of the eight Cardinals from abroad who had arrived before him. Their leader, Giovanni Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the congress, remained most of the day resting on the estate of Nicholas F. Brady, in Roslyn, L. I. At dinner last night, he and the 13
members of his papal suite were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Brady, the only other American present being Bishop Edward F. Hoban of Chicago.

In the morning he celebrated mass at the Brady home while six of the prelates were conducting mass in the temporary chapel on the eighteenth floor of Hotel Vanderbilt. For luncheon, Cardinal Bonzano came into the city by automobile to be the guest of Cardinal Hayes.

YALE MAN WHO FELL IN LOVE WITH CLARA BOW FOUND SANE

Robert Savage Tells Lunacy Board
He Only Faked Suicide Attempt to Test Her.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, June 15.—

Robert Savage, former Yale athlete and luckless suitor of Clara Bow, movie actress, has been found sane. Savage slashed his wrists recently after the film flapper refused to marry him.

Appearing before the lunacy
commission, Savage testified yesterday that he had merely faked the suicide attempt in order to test the love of Miss Bow.

Miss Bow told of having informed Savage after he had visited her home several times that he would have to stop calling because of her engagement to another man.
Gus Patterson, a friend of Savage, testified that the screen star had made love to the young man.

Both Patterson and Savage said that Miss Bow had told them she was tring of Gilbert Rowland, to whom she was engaged at the time.
Since the Savage affair, the engagement has been broken.

Grandma's wire came this morning and before dinner I had refinished her favorite chair with Duco-two coats too!

DUCO is famous for quick drying. But that is not its only advantage for home decorating.

Here at last you have a finish that can be successfully applied by anyone. Just brush it on.

Try DUCO on furniture, woodwork, floor or wall. See how easily it brushes on, how quickly it dries, how the brush marks disappear, and then the final hard, lustrous finish that never chips, peels, cracks or fades.

Here are some of the things you can do with DUCO:

- finish the kitchen floor with DUCO in the morning and get lunch in the kitchen that noon
- do a perfect "white enamel" job on your woodwork without requiring the use of any of the usual under-coats
- finish your automobile with DUCO on Saturday afternoon and drive it that evening.

We carry DUCO in sixteen popular colors and black and white. Any special shade can be secured by intermixing.

'ANTI-TRUST LAW WAS

Minority of Trade Commission Charges Bakery Case Was
"Railroaded."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—A charge that the Federal Trade Commission's dismissal of its anti-trust complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation was "railroaded" by the majority members "within about 15 minutes," and that Chairman Nugent of the commission was not even given time to read over the documents upon which the Commission's action was based, is made in a dissenting opinion made public by Commissioners Thompson and Nugent.

The dismissal effected some time ago was brought about, the dissenting opinion says, to allow the filing of the consent decree in Federal Court at Baltimore dissolving the Ward Food Products Co. The minority members of the Commission also charge that this decree left "William B. Ward, his former employees, intimate friends and business associates in control of the Ward, Continental and General Baking Corporations, the three largest in the country."

Quoting from a recent speech by President Coolidge urging obedience to law, the opinion said that it was "evident that the Attorney-General and Commissioners Hunt and Humphrey, who were appointed by President Coolidge, and Commissioner Van Fleet, are not in accord with the statements of the President on law enforcement."

"As public officials, they are, to quote the President, 'charged with the execution of the law,' and so far as the Continental is concerned, they not only executed Section 7 of the Clayton act, but they buried it, 'unwept, unhonored and unused.'"

The opinion quotes the statement made to the Commission by Chairman Nugent when the complaint was dismissed, in which he charged the Commission with hasty action.

"Let the record show," the statement said, "that I dissent particularly from the action of the majority members of the Commission in railroad this matter through within about 15 minutes, without giving me an opportunity, which I requested, to examine the memorandum of the chief counsel and the proposed consent decree, notwithstanding I stated I would be ready to act tomorrow. The proposed decree upon which the order of the majority is based has not been read for the information of the Commission."

"Following this statement," the opinion says, "Commissioners Van Fleet and Humphrey insisted that the decree be read, without upon the secretary read a memorandum by the chief counsel setting out 'what purported to be a portion of the consent decree.'"

Calling action unprecedented, the majority commissioners would not allow Chairman Nugent at his request, even 24 hours in which to examine said memorandum and consent decree which were presented to the Commission on Friday, April 2, for the first time. Never before in the history of the Commission, under like circumstances, has such a request on the part of the commissioner been denied.

Testimony taken by the Commission on its complaint charging the Continental with acquiring stock of 25 companies operating 83 or more bakeries throughout the United States in violation of the Clayton act, the opinion said, "went far toward proving the truth of the charge and with the evidence to be taken, would have shown that the acquisition constituted a plain violation of the law. The Continental alone is large enough to dominate the bread-baking industry of the United States. Its baking plants are located in every section of the country and the territory served by it includes approximately one-half of the population of the United States."

The Doctrine of the Church

The Christian Church is made up of the whole number of all believers and is not limited to one individual church denomination. A Christian is one who believes that he is saved from his sin solely and alone by Jesus Christ who, through the shedding of His blood, has made a vicarious and complete atonement for all sin, inherited and actual. Even in a church body in which error and false doctrine is taught Christians can be found. They are Christians by God's grace in spite of these errors.

A congregation and a church body which does not teach and confess the Trinity and the atonement is not Christian.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—With a vote approaching the Senate on the McNary equalization fee measure, the list of prominent proponents and opponents of the principle outside of Congress grows.

Secretary Mellon's name appeared today among those who have declared against the plan. Others are Secretary Jardine and B. F. Younk, New York financier and advocate of the commodity marketing proposal written into the Curtis-Aswell bill.

Joining the ranks supporting the bill—which include Vice President Dawes and Bernard M. Baruch of New York—was the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, the president of which, F. F. Kilgore, has written a letter to Southern Senators in support of the plan.

The Senate has completed general debate on the McNary measure, which is similar to the Haugen bill recently voted down in the House, and expects to reach a vote on it tomorrow or Thursday.

The views of Secretary Mellon were set forth in a letter to Chairman Haugen, of the House Agriculture Committee, and Representatives Dickinson of Iowa, and Anthony of Kansas.

Declaring the proposed legislation would prove "neither workable nor beneficial," he said: "The net result will be that the American consumer will pay the increased domestic price which, of necessity, must include the equalization fee or the loss incurred in selling the surplus abroad. I can see no permanent relief for American agriculture through subsidizing foreign competition; and that, in my opinion, is what the bill, if it becomes a law, will do."

Mellon's Theory of Relief. Mellon said that relief for the farmer lay in the elimination of waste between the producer and the consumer, so that the farmer may receive a higher net price and yet the ultimate consumer may not have to pay more.

"This purpose," he continued, "can be approached through more orderly marketing and co-operation. The second way is to increase the demand for our surplus and thus raise the price, not to our consumers alone, but to the world.

"Farming differs from most industries in that the output largely fixes the price, whereas in manufacturing the price largely controls output. For this reason, it would seem desirable to find some method not only of adjusting production, but of distributing and marketing products in the most efficient manner possible. Perhaps co-operative marketing to the extent that it can be developed may help to solve the farmers' difficulties.

"There are, of course, many inherent weaknesses in co-operative marketing, particularly when great and widely spread industries, such as cotton, wheat, corn and livestock, must be organized. But it is along this line, in working out the best methods of distributing and marketing, that the Government can be of most help to the farmer.

"Some of the measures which have been introduced for this purpose and are now pending in Congress attempt to place upon the Government too much financial responsibility for organizing, capitalizing and assisting business operations of doubtful merit. If public funds are to be employed, the same care should be exercised as would be taken by the average business man in using his own capital. They should not be thrown away as a bonus or subsidy to promote enterprises which could never succeed on their economic merits."

Chance of Improvement. Expressing a belief that there is "a large field for the improvement of our farm conditions in the improvement of world conditions," Mellon added:

"I feel confident that within another year many of the nations whose buying from us is now paralyzed by a demoralized currency will have recognized and adopted plans for permanent restoration of stable money. With this reform the purchasing power of Europe should increase and with it the demand for, and the price of, our surplus."

WASHINGTON, June 15.—With a vote approaching the Senate on the McNary equalization fee measure, the list of prominent proponents and opponents of the principle outside of Congress grows.

Secretary Mellon's name appeared today among those who have declared against the plan. Others are Secretary Jardine and R. F. Yoakum, New York financier and advocate of the commodity marketing proposal written into the Curtis-Aswell bill.

Joining the ranks supporting the bill—which include Vice President Dawes and Bernard M. Baruch of New York—was the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, the president of which, R. F. Kilgore, has written a letter to Southern Senators in support of the plan.

The Senate has completed general debate on the McNary measure, which is similar to the Haugen bill recently voted down in the House, and expects to reach a vote on it tomorrow or Thursday.

Declaring the proposed legislation would prove "neither workable nor beneficial," he said: "The net result will be that the American consumer will pay the increased domestic price which, of necessity, must include the equalization fee or the loss incurred in selling the surplus abroad. TACNA - ARICA BOARD FORBIDS PLEBISCITE AND CENSURES CHILE

Peruvians Deported, Conscripted or Murdered to Keep Them From Voting on Boundary Dispute Gen. Lassiter Charges.

By the Associated Press.

ARICA, Chile, June 15.—A plebiscite to determine the question of the suzerainty of the provinces of Tacna and Arica, claimed by Chile and Peru, is declared impossible in a resolution adopted by the Plebiscitary Commission, which charged Chile had placed hindrances in the way of free and honest vote.

The crisis in the situation came yesterday when the commission took action on the resolution introduced by Gen. Lassiter, the American chairman, declaring that Chile had placed hindrances in the way of the vote and that therefore a plebiscite was impracticable.

Both Gen. Lassiter and Augustin Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation, spoke. Gen. Lassiter went at great length to sustain the legality of his proposal to end the siting. Senator Edwards took the opposite viewpoint, asserting that the Plebiscitary Commission did not have the right to decree a plebiscite impossible.

Outrages Against Peruvians. "Reference to the records of the commission," said Gen. Lassiter, "shows that the American delegation develops the fact that, without going further back than January, there are found in the files hundreds of reports and complaints of outrages against Peruvians. It has been impossible to fully investigate these cases, but the number and variety of the reports, based on the personal observation of members of the staff of the president of the commission, and evidence adduced in cases that have been submitted, have led to the conclusion that there is no doubt in the mind of any impartial examiner into the facts that there existed and still exist in the plebiscitary territory conditions utterly incompatible with the exercise by Peruvians of the legitimate plebiscitary activities essential to a free and fair expression of the will of the qualified electorate under the award."

Deporation and Murder. "The inescapable conclusions must be arrived at that the Peruvian electorate has been physically reduced below its proper figure by such measures as forcible deportations, departures induced by violence or threats, unexplained military conscription and even assassination; that Peruvians who have been driven or frightened out of plebiscitary territory have not been given by the Chilean authorities due opportunity or facilities to return and register to vote; that there has been widespread terrorization of Peruvians, brought about through violence to persons and property; that there have been acts of oppression and persecution; that Peruvians have been subjected generally to unlawful restrictions, molestation, discriminations and other forms of interference with plebiscitary rights; that the Peruvian official plebiscitary propaganda has been impeded, even subjected to assault, in an effort to discharge the necessary appropriate plebiscitary duties; that there have been general deliberate misrepresentation and suppression of real facts by the local Chilean press; and by the local Chilean press; that the conditions above outlined have been brought about not only of the McNary and Haugen measures the Treasury Secretary said that there would be "insuperable" difficulties in the collection of the equalization fee which would make the intricacies of the income tax and prohibition enforcement appear simple by comparison."

Defeating Its Purpose.

"In the end," he asserted, "it seems to me that the bill will defeat the very purpose which it seeks to accomplish. The chief obstacle to farm prosperity is the payment of a subsidy or the levying of an 'equalization fee', or the artificial increase in any other way of the price of farm commodities, will inevitably result both in stimulating further production on the part of the farmer and in decreasing consumption on the part of the buying public, thus bringing about a still greater surplus of products."

Furthermore, if a subsidy of this kind is given to five agricultural commodities, the Government could not logically refuse to give the same treatment to the textile, boot and shoe, coal and other industries which are finding some difficulty in disposing of their surplus products."

View of Cotton Co-Operatives.

Kilgore's letter to the Southern Senators said: "The cotton co-operatives are fairly representatives of the best element of cotton farmers in their several States. . . . With first hand knowledge of the conditions of our farmers and with the factors of our prosperity, which determine the power of Europe should increase, and with it the demand for, and the price of, our surplus."

In his analysis of the principles

with the knowledge and implied approval of the Chilean authorities, but in many cases with their connivance, evidenced by failure to restrain the criminal activities of certain so-called patriotic and political organizations, whose operations have been accompanied by unmistakable evidence of official support and approval.

Arbitration Award Frustrated.

"The hopes of mankind are fastened upon arbitration as a means, perhaps the only means now available, for settling disputes between nations and preventing the consoling of war. But even these considerations could not justify me in losing my eyes to the truth or in deliberately sanctioning a proceeding which I am convinced by force of indisputable evidence would have been not only in conflict with the award of the arbitrator, but contrary to the agreement for a plebiscite not violative of the rights of one of the nations concerned. Arbitration was never intended as a cloak for such a wrong."

Notwithstanding the failure of this great effort, let us hope that some means may yet be found for settling in a peaceful and just manner the controversy over Tacna and Arica, which has for so many years troubled the relations between Chile and Peru."

Arbitration was undertaken first by the late President Harding, who hoped to find a way to remove from Latin American politics an issue that had led to a generation-old controversy and several times had threatened to lead to war. Once the territory of Bolivia, the two provinces passed under conditional control by Chile half a century ago after a war that involved more or less directly all of the South American Pacific seaboard nations. One of the conditions of the peace treaty, however, was that a plebiscite should be held at some future time to determine whether Chile or Peru should remain permanently in possession of Tacna and Arica.

Chile and Peru never were able to agree on the conditions for such a plebiscite, however, and Harding called representatives of the two governments to Washington where they drew up a protocol, leaving it to the President of the United States to decide how the sovereignty of the provinces should be determined. After Harding's death, his successor in the White House was designated to succeed him, as arbitrator. In an award a year ago last March, Mr. Coolidge decided in favor of a plebiscite, and designated a commission of Chileans, Peruvians and Americans to go to Arica and supervise arrangements for the voting.

Chilean Ambassador to U. S. May Be Recalled.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—"I do not know whether I shall stay here or not," said the Chilean Ambassador today when asked to comment on overnight developments in the Tacna-Arica controversy. He would not elaborate his statement. The natural consequence of failure of negotiations in which he has had a part, however, would be his recall and the appointment of a new ambassador.

During the Senate debate yesterday, President Coolidge was assailed by advocates of the McNary bill, who charged that the President was blocking the legislation. The administration was attacked particularly by Chairman Norris of the Agriculture Committee, who said an agreement had been made between President Coolidge, Secretaries Hoover and Jardine and representatives of co-operative organizations to confine farm relief to co-operative marketing legislation.

"The co-operatives have a right to do that," he added, "but they ought to come out in the open and not do it in secret."

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—Separate demands for wage increases will be presented to the railroads by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. PAPE PROPOSES CHAIN OF PARKS OUTSIDE OF CITY Park Commissioner Favors Maintaining Recreation Grounds Even 20 Miles Away.

SUGGESTS SITES ALONG RIVERS

Notes Falling Off of 28,226 in Number of Golf Games Under $10 Permit Charge.

By the Associated Press.

St. Louis County, is recommended by Park Commissioner Pape in his annual report to the Director of Public Welfare.

There are large wooded areas within 20 miles of the city on the banks of the Meramec and Missouri rivers which should be made generally accessible to the people; he said, pointing out that good highways already lead to these localities.

In the event of adoption of the county annexation proposal at the election Oct. 26 these sites would be within the city limits. The commissioner did not suggest in his report how funds for the outer park system might be obtained. It would be highly advantageous for the city to acquire the necessary land now, he declared. The Mayor and the City Plan Commission have assured him of their sympathy with the idea. Outer parks offer the only possibility for additional public golf facilities, the report declared. Chicago has purchased 35,000 acres for outer parks. For another lake in Forest Park, when the River des Peres is carried through Forest Park in a sewer, the Commissioner says, the river bed can be converted into a series of lagoons to empty into a large lake in the southeastern section of the city.

When the River des Peres is carried through Forest Park in a sewer, the Commissioner says, the river bed can be converted into a series of lagoons to empty into a large lake in the southeastern section of the city. The expense of this project would not be great, the report asserted. "The city should maintain and develop the parks and playgrounds properly, the report laments. The amount available the last fiscal year was less than that for the year before, yet more area is added to the park system. The city has 40,000 house prisoners as laborers has helped in park maintenance, Pape noted.

Fewer Golf Games.

Since the charge of $10 a year for golf permits became effective last July, more golfers have been demanding better facilities, the commissioner related, but he said the large number of beginners using the links in Forest Park and the crowds there, running as high as 1500 on Sundays, made maintenance of the 40,000 golfers, 323 games of golf played in the last fiscal year, compared with 177,549 the year before.

The charge of $11 a year for tennis permits, also effective since July, has not brought in enough to justify the new bleachers in Forest Park courts, said the report. In the last fiscal year there were 167,983 tennis games, compared with 239,768 the year before.

Hints to the Public-Spirited.

Some citizens desiring to do a great thing for the city might donate funds for a natural history museum to be erected in one of the city parks, Commissioner Pape said. A number of public squares also might be beautified by donations he said.

Recommends to the Board. In the report are: Reconstruction of park roadways to withstand the present heavy traffic; more frequent painting of park buildings as a measure of economy, some not having been painted for six years; erection of new bleachers in Forest Park courts, said the report. NEW TERMS SUGGESTED FOR BRIDGE TRADE BY CITY AND TERMINAL

President Cotter of Manufacturers' Railway Suggests City Pay Rental for Eads Vehicular Deck and Roads Get Use of Track Deck of Municipal Structure on Operating Cost Basis.

SUGGESTS NEW PLAN FOR BRIDGE EXCHANGE

WILLIAM COTTER.

An alternative plan to the one suggested by the Chamber of Commerce Terminals Committee for exchange of uses of Eads and Municipal bridges has been suggested to Mayor Miller by William Cotter, president of the Manufacturers' Railway.

It is that Eads Bridge be freed of vehicular tolls and that the city pay annually to the Terminal Railroad a sum equal to the average net return the Terminal has had from tolls in the last five years. That the Municipal Bridge be opened to the Terminal—and all other railroads—and that each road pay on a proportionate per car basis. The per car charge would be determined by dividing the total carrying cost of the bridge by the number of cars passing over it. This is what has been termed in discussions as the "user" basis. In contrast with the Terminal proposal for a flat charge of its own fixing. The city's payments for Eads Bridge would be credited to the city's charge against the Terminal for use of the Municipal Bridge.

This suggestion of Cotter is made in anticipation of an opinion of the city's Legal Department that the bridge trade cannot be made legally under the plan set down in the Chamber of Commerce ordinance. The lease under which the Terminal holds Eads Bridge and tunnel provides that they shall be forever used for the purpose for which they were constructed. The only reason the city desires the tunnel to be able to close or radically alter it when it builds subways downtown.

In Reply to Mayor's Request.

Cotter's suggestions are in response to a request from Mayor Miller for a plan "for a fair and reasonable use of the Municipal Bridge, taking into consideration the city getting the use of the Eads Bridge." "It seems to me," the Mayor added, "that the city getting Eads Bridge and tunnel is an important thing in any deal that is made."

Cotter's reply was as follows: "Your inquiry was directed toward reasonable terms for the use of the Municipal Bridge in the event the city secures the Eads Bridge and tunnel. Assuming for the moment that the city needs the Eads Bridge and tunnel so badly that it is willing to make a trade, an ordinance proposing such a trade along the lines of the present ordinance really comprehends three separate and distinct propositions:

"1. The city to secure the Eads Bridge and tunnel. Of course, competent legal advice should be secured that the city will really get the Eads Bridge and tunnel in such a way that it can do with them as it wishes, without being responsible to either the railroads or the original owners of the bridge and tunnel, other than the terms set forth in the ordinance. That is, there should be no come-back from the railroads or the bridge and tunnel owners that would embarrass the city to the point where it would either be compelled to pay large sums of money to the railroads or to vote millions of dollars in bonds for their purchase."

For Separate Action on Franchise.

"2. The extension of the Terminal's franchises and the general improvements in facilities and service go together and are really related at all to the bridge problem, but constitute an entirely separate problem. Of course, if the franchises be extended, they should carry with them definite improvements."

CARAWAY RAKES MELLON DEFENSE OF PENNSYLVANIA

Invites G. O. P. Senators to State What They Think a Proper Price to Pay for Primary Victory.

TEXT OF NEWBERRY REPORT IS QUOTED

Bingham in Tilt With Arkansan—Hiram Johnson Rises to Defend the Primary System.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Disclosures in the Pennsylvania primary inquiry, which thus far has placed the combined campaign chests of the three rival Republican tickets at about $2,000,000, came in for attention today on the Senate floor.

Pointing out that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had said the Pennsylvania expenditures were necessary under the primary system, Senator Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas reintroduced the celebrated resolution calling Truman H. Newberry as a senator from Michigan, but condemning the expenditure of $195,000 on his behalf.

The resolution carried no name nor amount. Caraway explained that he would leave it to Senator Willis, (Rep.) of Ohio, author of the Newberry resolution, or some one else on the Republican side, to fill in the blanks, putting in a figure which they now regard as excessive and a waste of money. The resolution of the Senate and the safety of the Republic.

Bingham Tilt With Caraway.

Senator Bingham (Rep.) of Connecticut asked if Caraway thought the same amount of campaign expenditures should apply to a State of 100,000 population as to a State of 10,000,000 population. "I don't know whether or not," man in a State of 10,000,000 should sell his vote for the same as a man in a State of 10,000,000," replied Caraway. "I left the amount blank so that experts could fill it in. I am willing to leave it to the Senator from Ohio."

"Shouldn't you say so much a head?" asked Bingham.

"Secretary Mellon, who is a financial wizard, said $10 a head was not too much, and not enough was spent," reported the Arkansas Senator.

Bingham said he was not discussing the buying of votes, but wanted to know if Caraway thought 10 cents a head was too much for a candidate to pay for conducting a campaign.

Caraway Pleads Inexperience.

"I wouldn't attempt to put my judgment up against experts," replied Caraway. "I have had no experience in per head vote buying."

Bingham said it was not fair to criticize a State when the circumstances were not known.

The discussion aroused Senator Johnson, (Rep.) of California to a vigorous defense of the primary system.

The developments in Pennsylvania were analogous to the man who sought to bribe a jury, he said, and then declared the jury system should be abolished.

Assailing those newspapers and "distinguished citizens" who have attacked the direct primary, Johnson declared it was better for a fortune in a primary election to sell his soul to a political boss under the convention system.

On Purchasing the Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH the stench of the Pennsylvania carnival of corruption fresh in the public nostrils, the politicians and correspondents are casting about for something to blame in the political system. Ultimately the first goat at which the accusing finger points is the primary.

The perversion of the primary to the purposes of unscrupulous plutocracy is, of course, an established fact. Lacking outstanding issues and leaders the prize goes to the highest bidder. It is expensive politics to those out to buy the Government. But, given outstanding leaders such as La Follette and Brookhart, or outstanding popular issues, there is a chance under the primary for the nomination of a friend of the poor. Under the convention system in a State like Pennsylvania there is none. It comes to this, then: That ordinarily the rich can buy the Government under either system. But they chafe at the primary for two reasons—it makes the cost ruinously high and, once in a while, it gives the popular cause a chance. Vane or Pepper would have been nominated by convention at a fraction of the cost of the primary, and not a word of the inner workings of the corruption machine would have got to the public.

Getting down to the roots of the thing, Pennsylvania is a specimen not so much for the political laboratory as for the moral. It shows that, with a concentration of unscrupulous wealth, a word of the ignorant and venal and a sweating of the wage and salary vassals so that they don't have time to think or vote, we may develop under our political system a pre-revolutionary Russia.

The fear of hell is gone, and, as long as a step forward as that may be, it means that the vicious circle of Mammon and ship, venality, ignorance, exploitation and suppression of truth will continue to operate and fester either until something breaks and there is a new beginning or until there occurs a transforming realization of the madness of our ways and the cheapness of our ideals. Instead of being indignant we should be thankful for any exposure of symptoms of the moral leprosy which is eating at the heart of the nation and the nation's government.

What We Girls Think About Boys.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE wonder if the boys ever stop to think what our opinion is of them. You want us to be frank and honest, eh? Well, we admire "Sheiks," but we certainly don't respect them. There are but three types of girls: "Flappers, clinging vines and prudes." Of them you don't approve, what do you want, "Midwestern stuff"? You don't belong here, you belong back home.

Some of you were in favor of smoking for girls. There are only two classes for that, the highest and the lowest. Do you know what you are? You don't. I'll enlighten you. We'll say you just met the girl, you take her out for a ride, stop at some God-forsaken place and expect to have a "good time." If she consents, you don't think much of her. If she refuses, you call her a prude; say she's a kill joy and slow. Some men will walk a mile for a camel; a girl will walk 20 for an ideal.

If a girl really loves a man she will stand by him, give up her home and friends if necessary. She loves him for himself, not his bankroll or position. But you men are different. If the girl you love has a dark past, you will marry her. That's what gets me. Why be like that, are you an angel? I should say not; you're the bunk!

Well, I'm not going to worry my brain any longer, but I feel better now that I've told you what I think of your lot. If you want more you'll get it.

A THROTTLING BRIDGE ORDINANCE.

The able analysis of the proposed ordinance for the exchange of bridges, by C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, with the record of the movement, shows how far the measure falls below the original goal of the Citizens' Committee.

The movement for the exchange of bridges started as a plan to extend and simplify and vastly improve the terminal facilities of St. Louis. The exchange of bridges was only a part of the general plan of expansion and improvement. The use of the Municipal Bridge was intended as an aid to the facilitation of the transfer of traffic through the terminal system and over the bridges, both ways.

The proposed ordinance is a practical abandonment of the original object. Written by or under the dictation of Henry Miller, president of the Terminal Railway Association, and approved by a hand-picked majority of the Citizens' Committee, composed largely of railroad men, the ordinance gives the Terminal Railway Association all it wants, and, with a few minor exceptions, offers the city promises of expansion without definite pledges as to extent and time. It offers the city the use of the upper deck of the Eads Bridge, free of tolls. It offers it the railroad deck and the tunnel of Eads Bridge under conditions which may in the future deprive the city of the use of the bridge and prove an insurmountable obstacle to the building of a subway. The city is not definitely assured that it can hold and use the Eads Bridge as it desires to use it. But the Terminal Railway Association will have a cinch on the Municipal Bridge.

It is the opinion of Mr. Smith that the original terms upon which the Terminal Association obtained the Eads Bridge would not permit the city to use the railway deck of the bridge to advantage, and perpetuates the tunnel as an obstacle to any subway. City Counselor Muench shares the opinion of Mr. Smith that lease restrictions on the bridge and tunnel destroy the usefulness of the Eads Bridge to the city, except the highway deck.

This opinion that the Terminal Railway Association cannot turn over the Eads Bridge and the tunnel to the free use of the city is shared by the attorney of the Citizens' Committee. It is our understanding that Glendy Arnold, attorney for the Citizens' Committee, drew up a report, following the engineers' report, in which he discussed the restrictions on the use of the Eads Bridge, and framed an ordinance covering all the concessions desired and needed by the city to carry out the original plan.

Why was this report suppressed? Why was the ordinance drawn by the attorney in accord with the original plan suppressed? We challenge the Citizens' Committee to produce this report, for the information of the Chamber of Commerce, whose committee has approved the ordinance, and for the information of the voters of St. Louis, who will be called upon to pass upon the ordinance.

The proposed ordinance turns over to the Terminal Railway Association the railway deck of the Municipal Bridge, upon its own terms. It can decide what approaches shall be built, what connections made and what the so-called service tariff shall be.

In short, it makes the Municipal Bridge a part of the monopolistic system of the Terminal Railway Association, perpetuates its toll tariff and its complete control of all the bridges and terminals in St. Louis. It cuts out competition of either independent railroads or independent terminals.

So far from expanding and improving terminal facilities, and making St. Louis a greater gateway, the ordinance would only exchange one bridge for another, and close all the avenues of entry and exit in St. Louis to any railroads or terminals except upon the conditions imposed by the Terminal Railway Association, and upon the toll tariff it charges.

In other words, the proposed ordinance throttles competition in either service or the rates of service. It makes the control of the combination of railroads which has long held St. Louis by the throat absolute and perpetual, without compensation in the way of much-needed additional facilities which the association long ago should have provided, without any reward except better service for the roads and for St. Louis.

The proposed ordinance extends franchises of the Terminal Railway Association without pledges of adequate facilities and service. The extension of franchises which should have been made wholly apart from the exchange of bridges, and on terms and conditions which relate solely to the franchises and the reasons for which they are extended, is provided for in the ordinance for the exchange of bridges.

Let us keep in mind that the report of the engineers upon which the plan for exchange of bridges was based outlined a tremendous improvement in terminal facilities and in terminal service. This report was made by a committee of engineers, five of whom were railroad engineers. It was the result of a comprehensive survey, and outlined changes and improvements the Terminal Association ought to make, in order to give St. Louis adequate service.

If the railroads owning the Terminal Railway Association were acting towards St. Louis in good faith they would put all of these improvements in effect, without a bargain. The privilege of using the Municipal Bridge upon fair terms has been open to these railroads from the building of the bridge. They refused to use it on fair terms, and the promise of great improvements in terminal facilities has been merely made the excuse to obtain the bridge on their own terms, and thus clinch their monopoly and their toll tariff.

We are astonished that the Chamber of Commerce, representing the shippers and business men of St. Louis, would stand for such a throttling bargain, or that any committee of the chamber would dare approve an ordinance ostensibly framed for the benefit of the city and the railroads, but which merely clinches the stranglehold of the terminal monopoly on the city.

Fortunately, other plans for the use of the Free Bridge on free and fair terms are being formulated, and will be presented for the consideration of the people of St. Louis. They will offer competition in service if not in rates. Competition in service would be invaluable to St. Louis. It would put the Terminal Railway Association on its mettle, and obtain what it is now trying to make a hard bargain for. The Municipal Bridge would still be open to the full use of the terminal railroads on fair terms.

WAR? NO; TRAFFIC CASUALTIES.

Saturday and Sunday added to the toll of deaths by automobiles colliding with railway trains at grade crossings at least 10. Six persons, on their way to church, were instantaneously killed at Wetmore, Pa., on Saturday, and four were killed and one probably fatally injured at a Missouri Pacific crossing in St. Louis on Sunday.

The picture of this Missouri Pacific crossing, in Monday's Post-Dispatch, shows that, with a double track at a point where the railroad line makes a sharp curve, the warning electric gong installed there was a most inefficient means of preventing accidents, and that the railway company owes it to the public to equip this crossing with gates, in charge of a watchman.

As to automobile fatalities generally, the figures might indicate that the country was fighting a war, with desperately contested battles. The 22,500 fatalities in 1925 were 2200 more than in 1924. Children to the number of 6300, under 15 years of age, lost their lives, as compared with 6090 in 1924. With 30 non-fatal accidents to each fatal case it is estimated that 675,000 persons were injured by automobiles in 1925.

In 13 of the major battles of the Civil War, from Bull Run to Gettysburg, the United States armies lost 23,928 killed—only 1428 more than we kill by automobile crashes in a single year. It is small comfort to point out that, compared with the increase in the number of motor cars each year, there is an apparent decrease. The actual increase in deaths and injuries is a growing problem. It must be solved, by safety crusades, by publicity, by education, and by the determination of the traveling public, drivers and pedestrians, to make the streets and highways safe.

DOCTOR FORD.

In conferring the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering upon Henry Ford the University of Michigan showed recognition of merit.

The custom of handing out honorary degrees to persons who rise to high positions is often of little credit to the institutions giving the degrees. They do not always represent an exact scholarship along the line for which the honorary degree was given. But in the case of Henry Ford we find coupled with his business success a profound knowledge of engineering. He has been a pioneer in testing new economic theories and has shown wizardry in high finance. Blandly and cockily ignorant in many respects, he does know business and he is shaping anew the character of industry.

The world, however, will never call Mr. Ford doctor; he will continue to be the wizard.

THE THINNING RANKS.

The horses had their annual pull the other day and it was a right brave show they made, but the turnout was not as big as it was last year. Next year there will be fewer still. The ranks are thinning.

It was nice of the Humane Society to arrange the parade, in honor of the horses that have borne the heat and the burden of the day and fought the good fight and are keeping alive the memories of the past. They stepped proudly, with heads up, the valiant few, as they swung from Locust street into Twelfth boulevard, receiving the tribute that is survivors' due. The traffic cop, creature of the hurried age that has followed the era of horses, for once was respectful and did not halt the column or break it up into fragments, as the fashion is. Perhaps he saw that it wouldn't do. The parade of the horses could not have survived much breaking up. It was scarcely more than a fragment as it was.

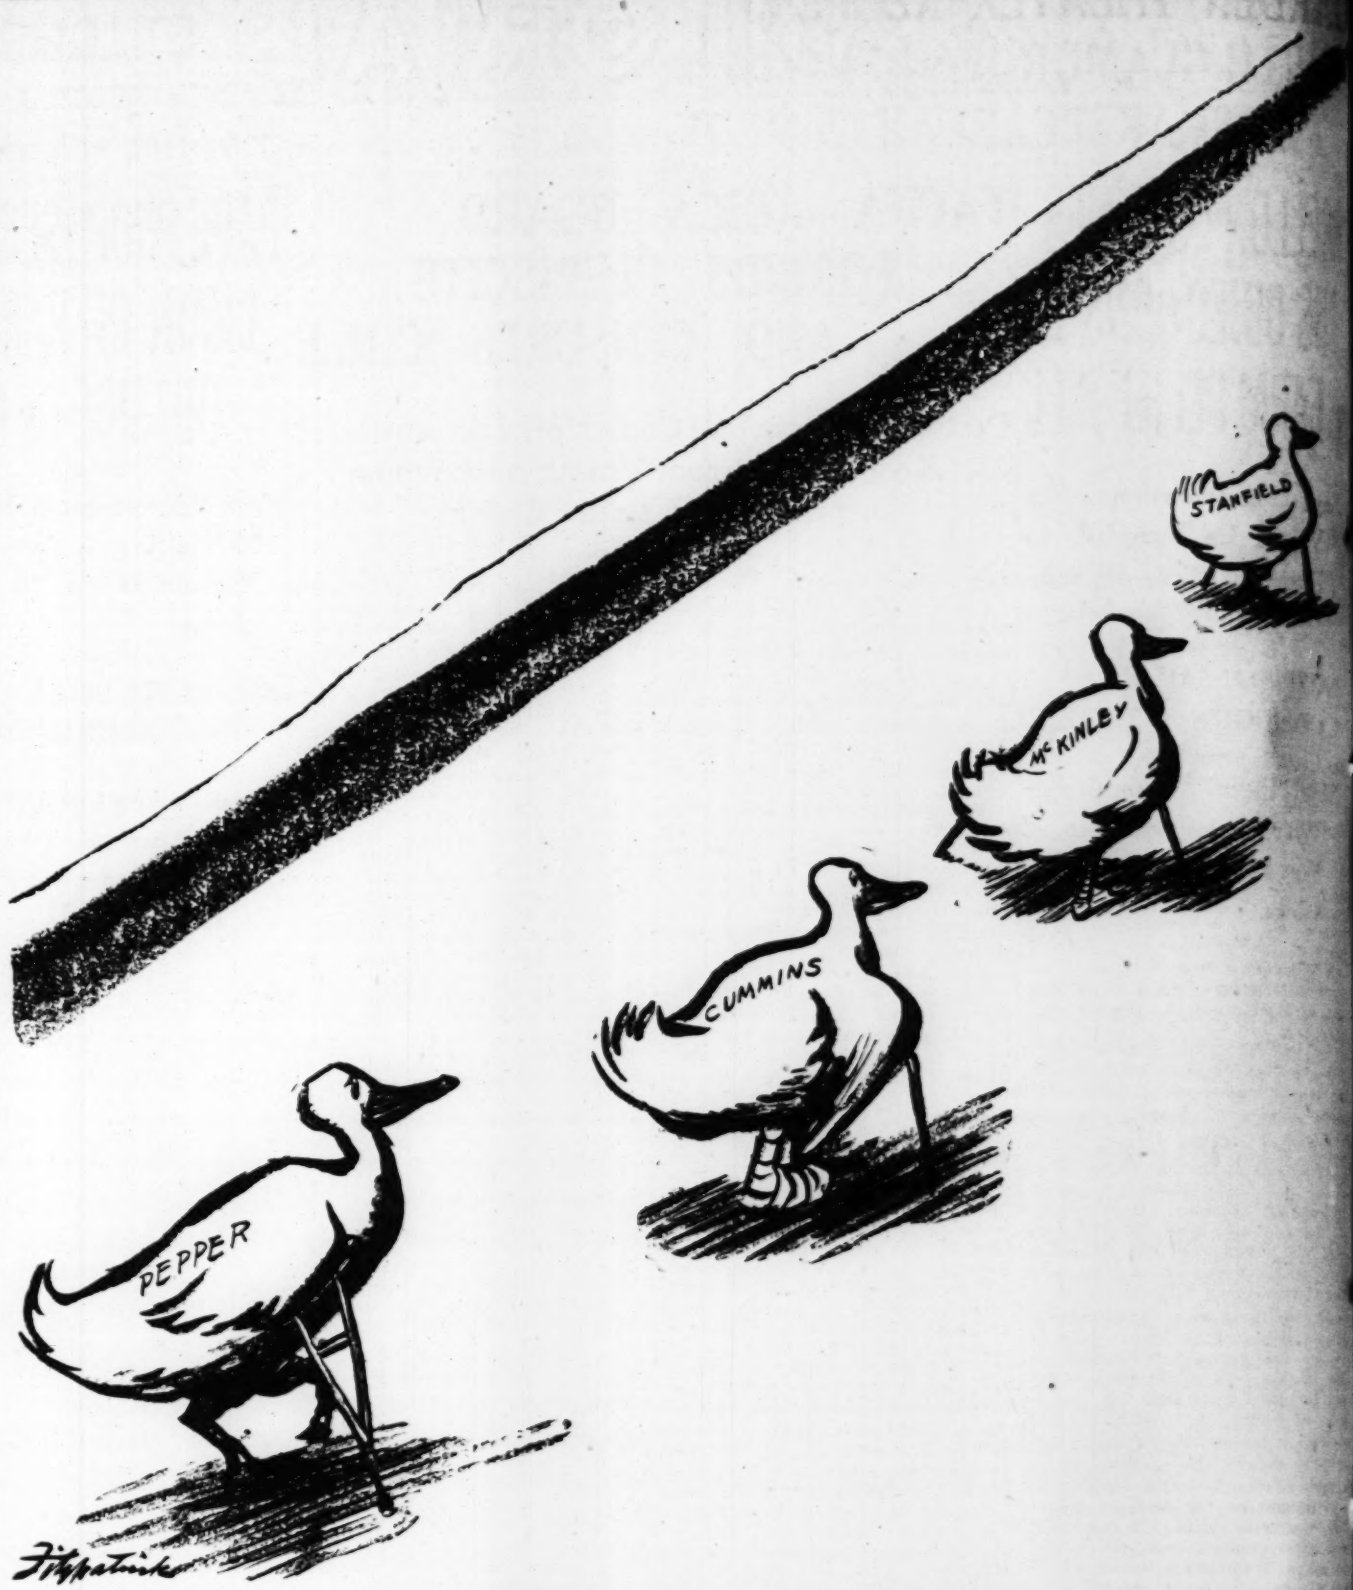

There was dignity and a certain disdain in the demeanor of the veterans of the dray and delivery wagon as they clumped along, paying no heed to the honks of the rushing automobiles. If these mechanical contrivances wanted to make a nuisance of themselves, very well. Only it wasn't the way things were done when the horse was king. There were manners in those days.

It was a matter of comment and regret among the old timers that the band rode in a motor truck. It should, of course, have been in a band wagon drawn by four horses, gay with plumes and martingales. A motor truck in a horse parade! Next thing they will be hauling the horses in snorting motor cages. After that extinction will be welcome.

OUR INNOCENTS ABROAD.

Miss Belle Harding of London, an authority on court etiquette, says that training the American debutante for presentation at the court of St. James's is like training a wild panther for an act in a three-ring circus. Miss Harding should know. That is her job, to tone our debs down from jazzmania to the necessary sedateness of proper court behavior. She finds the work is doubly difficult because our debs are impatient with the ancient and cumbersome forms of etiquette employed at the big levees. They have ideas how the ceremony can be altered to bring it up to date — to make it more efficient.

This pains the soul of Miss Belle Harding. To her it is sacrilege. And, of course, if the American deb could dash before the King and Queen in her own dynamic fashion, Miss Harding would be out of a job, and old England would be horrified. Still, we do not lack sympathy with the American deb. She usually goes under protest at the maternal command. And as Lorelei, a lady whom gentlemen prefer, said of London: "Presentation at court is really nothing." The levee is the stickiest of parties.

MUST HAVE BEEN A KNOCKOUT.

(Anna, Ill. Local.)

The Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist Church entertained their wives and families with a fist fry Friday evening.

The New Republic thinks the Democrats ought not to claim they are the disciples of Thomas Jefferson when it is well known that at least most Southern Democratic leaders are disciples of Hamilton. It thinks the Democratic party ought to stand against special privilege and ally itself with the liberal wing of the Republican party, leaving the Hamiltonians of democracy to go where they belong. That is, it thinks more liberal Democrats should be Republicans and wonders if something of that sort is not bound to happen. We are afraid not. The country is already dividing upon the liquor issue, and it will do no good in our time to point out where the economic interest of anyone lies. Prohibition, like slavery, will keep us busy until we get rid of it, and we could save time by giving the political field over to it at once. The folly of anything else was illustrated by the convention at Madison Square Garden two years ago. The convention was saying one thing and thinking another, and if it wants to do so it can hold precisely that kind of convention again in 1928. Mr. Borah, who is a shrewd student of political tendencies, has already taken up his position upon the field of Armageddon. He likely thinks little of prohibition as an issue, but no man can make his time.

They are going to have a dry referendum in Montana. People who recall "Hot Afternoons Have Been in Montana" will want to see this one included. If there is a drier place on earth they don't know what it is, and prohibition must have left the State something very much like the crater of a live volcano. A Montanan said some time ago that the largest and most successful irrigation project in the West is the Canadian border, which costs the United States nothing.

The little weekly Time intimates that Brookhart doesn't wear senatorial clothes, but it will not be known whether or not this is the qualification for membership in the Senate until Ohio decides what she is going to do with Senator Willis.

Brazil announces that she will withdraw from the League of Nations upon two years' notice. That ought to give her time to find her hat.

The play censors of New York City have closed "The Bunk of 1925," which must be a great loss to present-day drama.

PLAN TO REDUCE STATE TAXES.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

IT cost $55,000,000 to run Missouri State Government for the years 1924 and 1925. The Missouri Association for economy in public expenditures is looking over the field, with the aid of experts, and has learned that in the last two years the cost of government in Missouri has increased 2.15 times as fast as wages in the State has increased. Now the association proposes to do something about it, not on political, but on economic basis. It is not the intention to hit any political party or any administration, but is to reduce the Missouri "system" to a business basis, that there may be less needless waste, with corresponding relief to the taxpayer. So, when the Legislature convenes next January, it will be asked to establish a budget system for the State, and to consolidate approximately 199 boards and agencies of the Missouri State Government into a limited number of departments. Here is a sample paragraph from the association's report, just made public:

"The books of the State are not kept in such a way that a definite estimate of the cost of the State is obtainable. Nor is that the fault of the system and lack of real supervision. The system of accounting is archaic. It has not provided as systems of accounting have in other states. Funds are not properly accounted for. Many institutions in Missouri, as well as some boards, collect and spend without accounting for them through the State Treasury. No official knows the exact amount of funds collected and disbursed without passing through the financial department, although apparently millions are annually spent in this way."

The people, busy with their own affairs, have permitted the State Government to expand beyond the bounds of reason. More than half of the State's revenue must be made to lose some of its expenditures. The purpose is to let the people earn the money keep more of it for themselves and give less to the Government. There may be better business, more economy of life, enlarged opportunity and greater freedom for the people. The Legislature will be asked to write this program into law.

GRAND JURIES ARE NEEDED.

From the Potosi (Mo.) Journal.

EVERY once in a while it is urged that it would be well to abolish the grand jury system in Missouri, principally on the grounds that it is no longer useful or required as an adjunct to our criminal courts but just as often conditions are produced that could not be satisfactorily met in any way than by a grand jury. The latest instance of this is in the scandal that involved Circuit Attorney Howard H. H. of St. Louis. Were there no grand jury office alleged against Siders it is difficult to perceive how he could have been brought to account on these charges and he could have balked at efforts for an investigation of his official conduct. The grand jury system may have its faults, but it is the weapon of the people with which to keep recreant officialdom to account.

GARDEN THEATRE WITH GLAMOR OF SHAKSPEARE

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" With Natural Grove, Sun Moon and Fireflies

By RICHARD L.

HERE must have been a Little of Queen Elizabeth's amateur in "The Torchbearer" a Midsummer Night's Dream.

This elfin fantasy, presented last night at the Garden Theatre as the opening performance of its second season, was stressed as to that most lamentable comedy, the tedious brief scene of "Pyramus and Thisbe," which the mechanicals of Athens enact during the nuptial fete of Theseus and Hippolyta.

A spirit of merriment overflowed the play, engulfing not only the lovers who wander bemused in the enchanted forest, but touching even Theseus, as he mouths platitudes into the dotting ear of his Amazonian bride. So that, at the conclusion, when Robin Goodfellow beseeches the audience to "give me your hands," some 2500 pairs of palms volleyed joyous applause.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is notoriously difficult to stage in an indoor playhouse. It returned as from exile to its native land when transferred to the glamorous bowers, roofed and walled with leafage, which forms the stage at the Garden Theatre. Nature herself rushed to the poet's aid with inimitable properties—spangled starlight, the new-bent silver bow of the moon, forest and dale; and there were even fireflies to substitute for the glow-worms whose eyes night-tapers are lighted for Titania's shaggy lover.

This exquisite scene was transferred by a system of lighting which ranged from the majestic blaze of noon to the gossamer sheen of enchantment itself; and through the fairy's fluttered sleeves and gossamer, their filmy robes and dancing figures redoubled in a mirror-like pool that lay before the stage.

Simplicity of Setting.

On the theory that no man-made settings can possibly be as lovely as the stage itself, the direction limited its accoutrements to the utmost simplicity. A new stone terrace at the rear, with two or three marble seats, amply bodied forth a court. Save for a hummock of earth, the stage was bare for the forest episodes, and the artless players held their rehearsal on the turf in front of the pool, with the terrace concealed by alighting screens of greenery.

Thanks to this method, the major portion of the play—Acts II and III, with their five scenes, and the first act of the second—was given without pause or change of setting. Thus the comedy emerged in its pristine form; it was played with virtual continuity of action, and with very little cutting.

Mendelssohn's Music Used.

Encouraged by the famous strains of Mendelssohn's incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," as well as by English folk-dances collected by Cecil Sharp, the familiar personages of the play, supernatural, heroic and human, went about their several offices as if in a sort of twilight reverie, and even Nick Bottom and his crew of hinds were touched with that melancholy which trembles like an overdone all authentic comedy. In agreement with its title, the whole play glimmered with a dreamy lustre.

The cast is that of the Kenneth Sawyer Goodman Memorial Theatre, a new repertory playhouse in Chicago, under the direction of Thomas Wood Stevens, and reinforced by two professionals, Whitford Kane and B. Iden Payne.

Luckily, this company is on the whole too skillful to serve as a modern illustration for Shakespeare's satire on the amateur theatre. The diction, for the most part, clear, far-carrying and eloquent, made acceptable music of the poet's rhyming text. About 30 St. Louisans served charmingly as fairies and courtiers.

Creative Direction.

The climax was the performance of the play within a play at the palace of Theseus, in the last act. For one who has merely read the scene, this episode was an object lesson in direction. It was enlivened and interpreted with such wealth of by-play as to amount to a creative act in itself, and to prove that it is only pedants for whom the classics are inhuman and repellent.

On next Sunday night the company will give the first of three Sunday evening performances of "Everyman," and during succeeding weeks it will present "Twelfth Night," Moliere's "Don Juan" and "The Taming of the Shrew." With this program and last night's performance, it is clear that the Garden Theatre is maintaining the ideals which started the city last year at its initial production, that of the "Electra" of Sophocles.

"The Chocolate Soldier" Has Capital Repeat Production.

THE Shavian wit which tinctures "The Chocolate Soldier" is scarcely more refreshing than were, last night, the admirable casting of Oscar Straus' operetta as revived at the Municipal Theatre and the gusto with which the singers and the audience as well—fairly enjoyed their roles.

Needless to tell again the story of his penetrating satire, "Arma"

GARDEN THEATER REOPENS WITH GLAMOROUS REVIVAL OF SHAKSPEAREAN COMEDY

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" Is Presented
With Natural Grove, Starlight, New-Bent
Moon and Fireflies as Properties.

By RICHARD L. STOKES,

HERE must have been a Little Theater Movement in the apocryphal times of Queen Elizabeth. As George Kelly satirized the amateur in "The Torchbearers," so William Shakespeare exercised a pert and nimble spirit of mirth upon the dramatic toy in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

This elfin fantasy, presented last night at the Garden Theater as the opening performance of its second season, was stressed as to that most lamentable comedy, the tedious brief scene of "Pyramus and Thisbe," which the mechanicals of Athens enacted during the nuptial fete of Theseus and Hippolyta.

EARL OF DUNRAVEN, FAMOUS SPORTSMAN, DIES IN LONDON

Twice Competed for America's Cup; Was in Senate of the Irish Free State.

LONDON, June 15.—The Earl of Dunraven and Mount, once famous as a sportsman, died yesterday. The Earl twice sent 80-foot yachts across the Atlantic in unsuccessful efforts to bring back to Great Britain the America's cup. When the Irish Free State was set up President Cosgrave made Lord Dunraven a member of the Senate. He resigned his seat early this year because of ill health.

Founded Estes Park.

DENVER, Colo., June 15.—The Earl of Dunraven was known here as the founder of Estes Park, Colo. Now the heart of the Rocky Mountain National Park region. In 1875 Lord Dunraven became impressed with the beauty of that section of the Colorado Rockies and purchased about 6000 acres of land from settlers for a game preserve. Members of the British nobility, famous sportsmen and Indian fighters later frequented the Dunraven ranch, which he established at the entrance to the park. Annually Lord Dunraven and his family, with a few of his British friends, would visit the estate to hunt and fish. Among the western characters who entertained were William F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody and Kit Carson. Lord Dunraven sold his Estes Park estate in April, 1904, to O. Stanley of Newton, Mass.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FOUR AUTO VICTIMS THURSDAY

Wife of Driver Killed at Missouri Pacific Crossing Sunday Was Critically Injured.

Funeral services for the four members of one family who were killed Sunday afternoon, when their automobile was struck by a Missouri Pacific passenger train, will be held at 8:30 a. m. Thursday, at St. Engelbert's Church, to Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Burke, 55 years old, her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Hamble, 33, her granddaughter, Margaret Mary Hamble, 8, and her son-in-law, Clem D. Horn, 36, all residing at 4873 Kosuth avenue, were killed in the accident. Mrs. Horn was driving the car, which was struck by the passenger train at the railroad crossing about 200 feet west of Dewey avenue, where it stopped to await the passing of the Special train from the south. He attempted to cross immediately after it had cleared and the car was struck by the Bonne Terre local on the west track.

Thomas Conkey essays the role of Bumerli with quite as much relish as that Swiss Lieutenant of the commissary attacked his chocolate drops. The curious gay disillusionment that is in the role was implicit in his acting. Nadina gave to Dorothy Maynard the best opportunity of her seasons here, and the sureness of source of the roles was laid aside for a dignity and drama combined with spirited and pert impishness. Robinson Newbold's Col. Popoff was an admirable presentation of senility and brusqueness. The Alexis of Edward Molitor was the very flower of military staidness and pride. Maude Gray was a sprightly Aurelia; Bernice Marston an Aurelia at once flirtatious and sternly repressive of the Colonel's own flirtations. Detmar Poppen's Masakoff was splendid buffo fooling.

The music has lost none of its charm. Not even "My Hero" seems shopworn. Splendidly conducted it was last night, and Miss Maynard's "Hero" song, her "Chocolate Soldier" duet with Mr. Conkey, and the letter song were enthusiastically received. The sextet, "The Song of a Coat," was outstanding. The chorus gives a fine account of itself both in song and in the stage picture.

The scene in Nadina's chamber is played upon a stage upon the stage—a splendid and expert adaptation. The second and last act settings are authentic make-believe from some fairy-tale kingdom. But, alas, the artificial flowers that deck the scene are not authentic make-believe. They are simply artificial.

A GROUP of young women, comprising Miss Maud Street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Tuning in good radio dealers

A good radio set is "selective." That is, it tunes in the station you want to hear and tunes out interfering stations.

There ought to be an apparatus which selects radio dealers with equal readiness. But there isn't. Selecting a radio dealer will always be a matter of applying age-old character and business tests.

A year ago the Radio Corporation of America published an advertisement entitled "Where shall I buy a radio set?" It described a simple method whereby a prospective radio buyer could tune in to good dealers.

These few principles were recommended for securing good-dealer selectivity:

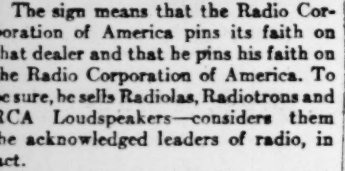

Willingness to sell you, without argument, a quality product of known reputation.

Customers dealing with him in such numbers that he obviously has the confidence of his community.

No substitution—no attempt to use a quality product as a lure to sell something else on which more profit is made. Rendering to the customer such service as may be needed after the sale is made.

The Radio Corporation of America has itself applied this method in building up a responsible retail organization which now embraces thousands of good radio dealers conveniently distributed over the country. Many of these dealers have long enjoyed the patronage of the public. Their selection by the Radio Corporation of America is but a reflection of public approval.

Maximum good-dealer selectivity is secured by a sign—the RCA Authorized Dealer's sign. If a dealer displays the sign it may be assumed that he has the qualifications laid down in last year's RCA message—that he is looking out for your interests and not merely his own—that he has successfully passed selective tests.

The sign means that the Radio Corporation of America pins its faith on that dealer and that he pins his faith on the Radio Corporation of America. To be sure, he sells Radiolas, Radiotrons and RCA Loudspeakers; considers them the acknowledged leaders of radio, in fact.

But he sells what he pleases—what his trade demands. The Radio Corporation does not dictate what he shall carry in stock. It asks only that he shall abide by these fundamental principles of sound retailing:

Render honest service and satisfy his customers.

Believe in the products that he sells. Build up a trade of a size and character that proves he has the confidence of the public and the business ability that warrants the extension of credit.

Stability is one test applied in securing maximum good-dealer selectivity. The RCA Authorized Dealer has a record as a business-builder. Once in a line of business he stays in it.

The public is interested only in dealers who believe in radio, who take a pride in the business that they are building up, and who realize what that much-abused word "service" means.

Dealers who display the RCA sign are dealers of that stable type.

Look for the RCA Authorized Dealer's sign. When you see it you have tuned in automatically to a stable, financially responsible, trustworthy radio dealer—no matter what radio product you may think of buying.

When one of these RCA Authorized Dealers assures you that a Radiola or an RCA Loudspeaker of a given price and model meets your carefully specified requirements you may bank on his word. And you can buy it with full confidence right now, for the present models of RCA Radiolas and Loudspeakers will not be superseded this year.

Ask any RCA Authorized Dealer to tell you about the following Radiolas and to demonstrate them:

PRELATE EXPELLED BY MEXICO ACCUSES U. S.

Note to Kellogg Says Government Did Not Do All It Could to Protect Him.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Laying his case before Secretary Kellogg, Monsignor George J. Caruana, the Catholic prelate recently expelled from Mexico, has taken the position that the State Department and the American Ambassador did not use every justifiable means at their command in his behalf. Monsignor Caruana was the papal nuncio to Mexico.

His letter to the secretary, dated June 4, was made public by the National Catholic Welfare Conference after the Mexican Consul-General at New York had issued a statement charging Monsignor Caruana with claiming himself as a Protestant to gain admission to Mexico.

Before leaving Washington, the prelate said, he had been assured by the Mexican Ambassador that no legal obstacle existed at that time "which could interfere with the entry of an American clergyman into that country," and his subsequent dealings with the Mexican immigration authorities, he asserted, were straightforward.

In going to Mexico, he went on, "he had no intention of performing any function proper to the profession of a clergyman" and "the fact that I had exercised this profession was a matter in which the Government of Mexico could not be properly interested."

Every Activity Covered
"Therefore," he continued, "in reply to the immigration official at Nuevo Laredo, I did not mention the fact that I am a clergyman in listing my professional titles. The information I gave him covered every activity in which I intended to engage while in Mexico, and, taken in connection with the documents exhibited by me at the time, was a full and complete statement."

His passport, he said, "showed clearly that I was a clergyman," and his medical certificate "showed with equal clearness that I was the Right Reverend Bishop of Porto Rico."

He made a detailed statement of incidents leading up to his departure from Mexico, saying:

"I bring these facts to the attention of your excellency and of the Government of the United States, because my observation convinces me that under the present government of Mexico, citizens of the United States having legitimate interests in Mexico and obliged by these to reside in that republic, are being denied the rights which it is customary for one government to concede to the citizens of another friendly nation, and because I feel that the protection of our citizens and their legitimate interests in Mexico calls for a policy and action more precise and more energetic than was exercised by my Government in my case, and for such further use as your excellency may deem proper."

Astonished at Reports.
On May 12, the prelate said, he was shown a ministerial decree stating the President had ordered his expulsion on the ground that he had made false declarations upon his entry and that since entering he had functioned as a clergyman. Consulting with the American Ambassador, he said, and feeling that appeal would be useless, he decided to comply with the order rather than undergo physical deportation.

"Since my arrival in the United States," he continued, "I have been astonished by published reports which indicate that the Government of Mexico has sought to justify its action in thus expelling me from Mexican territory under pretense that I did not comply with the law of Mexico. "I have no doubt, in a statement handed to the public press, your excellency considers that the American Ambassador and the Government of the United States have done everything possible, within the limitations of international courtesy and propriety, to protect the person and defend my interests which have been placed in jeopardy in Mexico. "Without departing from that deep respect which I justly feel towards your excellency, personally, and for the high office which your excellency holds, I cannot accept the above statement as satisfactory."

Violation of Promise.
"Neither the Constitution nor the laws of Mexico justify my expulsion from that country. The action of the Mexican Government is a flagrant violation of an assurance given by its officers to the American Ambassador to Mexico that no American citizen will be expelled from Mexico until after the United States Government has been given an opportunity to consider the facts upon which the proposed expulsion is based. This obligation was not lived up to in my case."

"The American Government was not given an opportunity to review the facts and I can but insist that it thus became the duty of your excellency to take whatever steps may have been proper to insure faithful compliance by the Government of Mexico with this duty of courtesy which had been freely accepted by it."

"Clergymen of foreign nationality, both American and others, are permitted by the Government of Mexico to continue to reside in that country. Some of these are known even to be exercising their profession regardless of the Constitution and laws which prohibit their doing so. No special or peculiar considerations have been advanced by the Government of Mexico to justify its discrimination against me, and, as an American citizen, I deem it my duty to bring to the attention of your Excellency and to protest against this failure on the part of the Government of the United States to insure for its citizens just and fair treatment from the government of a country with which we maintain relations of friendship."

TO FILE A DEMAND FOR ARKANSAS TO YIELD RUTHERFORD

Gentry to Forward Requisition for Slayer Following Refusal of His Brother to Appear Here.

DISMISSES CASE AGAINST BENDER

Confidential Information About Jury Leads to State's Action—Charge May Be Reinstated.

A requisition for William Allen Scott Rutherford, wanted here for second-degree murder and feloniously carrying a concealed weapon, has been prepared at the Attorney-General's office in Jefferson City and will be forwarded within the next three days to Little Rock, Ark., following the failure of Allen's brother, John, to come to St. Louis yesterday and testify against A. Samuel Bender as he had promised Attorney-General Gentry.

John Rutherford's absence was one of the reasons why Gentry yesterday dismissed the conspiracy indictment against Bender after a panel of 24 veniremen had been examined in Provisional Judge Grodzki's division of the Court of Criminal Correction.

As is known, the conspiracy indictment charged Bender, Circuit Attorney Sidener, John Rutherford, Verne R. C. Lacy, William Gelst and W. W. Henderson with leaguely together to "pervert and obstruct justice" in the Rutherford murder case settlement. Bender obtained a severance from the others and asked for speedy trial. Another and more important reason why the State moved a dismissal was that State's counsel was not satisfied with the jury panel. Confidential information coming to Gentry at the noon recess caused a last-minute change in plans and after the State had announced "ready" Gentry asked for a dismissal.

Case Not Finally Dropped. The State does not regard the conspiracy charge against Bender as finally dropped. The jury has not been sworn and the defendant was not in jeopardy. It is likely that the conspiracy charge will be reinstated by another indictment later.

Extradition proceedings against Allen Rutherford will be launched first, as the Attorney-General believes the case against him is stronger than that against John Rutherford, who is under indictment for bribery and conspiracy in connection with the Rutherford murder case settlement. However, Gentry announced that he planned to bring both brothers to St. Louis for the trial of Bender on an indictment which charges compounding a felony and is set for trial July 6 in the Circuit Court.

John Rutherford's flat refusal to keep his promise and the excuse given by his Pine Bluff attorney, Maurice Reinberger, that Gentry had qualified the offer of immunity, are regarded by the State as weakening the Rutherford's position.

Gentry, in arguing for the extradition before Gov. Terral of Arkansas at Little Rock, will produce a copy of the letter of immunity he sent John Rutherford, which shows that he placed no qualifications on his offer except the stipulation that John should "tell the whole truth and keep back nothing." This is a qualification which would have been demanded of Rutherford under the law when he took his oath as a witness.

How State Regards Refusal. Rutherford, the State believes, is placed in the light of refusing to come to St. Louis and tell the truth about spending $14,500 "to arrange matters" so Allen could escape a second degree murder indictment, in the killing of Jack Tucker, a Magestic Hotel bellboy, on payment of $500 fine.

The Rutherfords have loudly proclaimed in Arkansas that they were being "persecuted" by Missouri authorities, and that the indictments against them were brought as part of "a row between political factions in St. Louis."

Gentry will argue that his unqualified promise of complete immunity for both John and Allen if John would testify for the State contradicts them where they are "persecuting" them; that all he demands of the Rutherfords is John's truthful explanation of the negotiations which led up to the settlement. It is probable that if the Rutherfords are extradited they will be given another chance to produce John as a State's wit-

Unionville (Mo.) Democrat Opposes Congressman Romjue.

By the Associated Press, June 15.—John F. Daily of Unionville, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the First Missouri district, stated today in a telegram to the Hannibal Courier-Post, that he stood for the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

His opponent, M. A. Romjue of Macon, who is serving his fourth term from this district, is rated as a "dry." Daily made the race against Romjue two years on a "dirt farmer" platform, but was defeated by a large majority.

A point which the Attorney-General expects to stress in his argument for extradition is that John Rutherford gave a definite promise to testify for the State at a conference with Gentry at Pine Bluff Thursday, as was reported exclusively in the Post-Dispatch, and then sent his Pine Bluff lawyer to St. Louis to confer with Verne R. C. Lacy, one of the Rutherford counsel under indictment.

Following Reinberger's talk with Lacy it was announced that John would not appear as a witness. Gentry accuses Rutherford of insincerity in leading the State to believe that he had made a clear break with his St. Louis lawyers, and then sending to them for advice about giving testimony. While in St. Louis Sunday, Reinberger did not talk with Gentry or let him know he was in town.

Bender Trial Blows Up in Storm. Bender's trial yesterday, which blew up in a storm of angry talk by defense counsel when the State dismissed its case, has left both sides claiming a victory.

The Bender faction alleges that he was deprived of an opportunity to establish his innocence and left under the shadow of two indictments to make his race for Republican nomination for Circuit Judge and that the State's maneuver was a confession of inability to convict him. On the other hand, the State believes it saved itself from going on with a trial with an important witness missing and a jury not to its liking.

Word had traveled through the Municipal Courts Building that there would be "plenty of fireworks" at the Bender trial and half an hour before the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 1, convened at 10 a. m., there was a rush for seats and standing room.

Aside from the prospective jurors and witnesses in the Bender case, the crowd was made up chiefly of lawyers, bondsmen and Municipal Courts Building habitués. Most of the familiar figures to be seen any day in the corridors were on hand and took a "professional interest" in proceedings.

Bender, the defendant, came in wearing a blue and white striped sweater suit, tan shoes, and carrying a jaunty straw hat. His friends were in the majority and upon them he bestowed a confident smile, shaking hands right and left. He had three attorneys, A. M. Frumberg, Mark Eagleton and Harry Blodgett, known as combative, whose characteristic methods in the courtroom make them popular from the spectator's standpoint.

Defense Breaks Loose. The crowd did not long to wait for an outburst from the Bender defense. Attorney-General Gentry, who took his seat with Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer on the State's side of the counsel table, announced as soon as Provisional Judge Grodzki had the case called: "The State is ready." He made the announcement in a low tone. Immediately Frumberg was on his feet.

"What was that?" he said. "Let's have everything here aloud and in open court. We want no secret proceedings."

Gentry repeated his announcement while the "gallery" nudged each other, and edged forward so as not to miss further outbursts from Frumberg.

A panel of 20 jurors was called to chairs in the jury box and the Attorney-General began questioning them, interrupted by frequent objections by Frumberg, all of which Judge Grodzki overruled.

When it came the turn of the defense to question the jurors one of Frumberg's questions was "Have you seen the picture of the distinguished Attorney-General in the newspapers?" The jurors said they had. Then the defense lawyer queried, "You would not be influenced or awed by the Attorney-General's picture?" The jurors said they would not. Then Frumberg asked, "Have you read the articles which the distinguished Attorney-General gave to the newspapers?" Gentry interposed objection, saying, "I did not give ar-

Mock Apology to Gentry. The defense then sought to accuse Gentry through questions of having taken the grand jury that indicted Bender to a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce. Gentry objected and when upheld by Judge Grodzki, Frumberg made a bow of mock apology.

He continued to harass the State by saying to the jurors at one point in proceedings, "Now, gentlemen of the jury, this defendant is opposed by very distinguished counsel. There is the Attorney-General, whose pictures you have seen in the newspapers, and there is Mr. Arthur V. Lashly. There he sits. The gentleman with the David Warfield hair."

There was a titter from the motley group around the walls, and the Judge called for order.

Lashly replied, "I am very glad I am not bald."

Frumberg, whose hair is thin on top, bowed and went on. "As I say, we are opposed by distinguished counsel," he said. "While Mr. Eagleton and myself are simple, ordinary lawyers." He patted his chest.

919 HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES THIS YEAR

About 3200 Boys and Girls Completing the Eighth Grade.

Public schools are holding their semiannual commencement exercises this week. For some of the 4200 graduates the prospect now is that of entrance into the workaday world; for others, there is summer school, while the remainder is looking forward gleefully to three months of vacation in "the good ol' summer time."

In the high schools there will be 919 graduates, as follows: Beaumont, 106; Central, 173; Cleveland, 175; Roosevelt, 146; Soltan, 230; Sumner (Negro), 83. Harris Teachers' College will turn out 134 young women to take charge of classrooms and Sumner Teachers' College, 16.

There are about 3200 boys and girls completing the eighth grade in grammar schools, compared with 3041 last year.

The Commencement Programs. Plans for the high school and teachers' college commencements are as follows:

Roosevelt, at 8 p. m. tomorrow in its own auditorium; Sumner at 8 p. m. tomorrow in its own auditorium; Soltan at 10 a. m. Thursday in its own auditorium; Beaumont at 4 p. m. Thursday in its own auditorium; Cleveland at 8 p. m. Thursday in its own auditorium; Harris Teachers' College at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Soltan auditorium; Sumner Teachers' College at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Sumner auditorium; Central at 8 p. m. Friday in the Beaumont auditorium.

Central has been holding classes for the last semester in the former Yeatman High School building, but its alumni and students have received the promise that it will be returned to its own building at Grand boulevard and Windsor place as soon as repairs can be effected there. Its graduates will receive diplomas under the name of Central. Beaumont is holding its first commencement, having been opened last February. Members of the Board of Education will deliver addresses at most of the exercises.

Scholastic Year Ends Friday. There were about 112,000 pupils in the public schools during the last year, about the same number as the year before. Friday will mark the end of the scholastic year. The summer schools will open next Monday and continue till Aug. 13, with sessions six days a week from 8 a. m. till noon.

Continued from Preceding Page. Bender he used the phrases "this little man, here" and "this boy." Bender has a wife and three children and has been practicing law for 11 years.

The temper of Frumberg and Eagleton grew more marked as Judge Grodzki continued to overrule them on objections raised for the seeming purpose of heaping ridicule upon the State and the Attorney-General. This bitterness mounted toward a climax when, after the noon recess, Bender sent for a bundle of newspapers and had them placed on the clerk's table.

"That's the State's case," Eagleton remarked, jocularly to spectators.

But the grand flare-up came when Gentry announced to the Court: "May it please the Court, the State has been expecting witnesses here, and the State is not now ready to proceed, if objection is made to a continuance the State will dismiss the indictment as to this defendant."

"Outrage," says the Defense. Frumberg leaped up and there was a rush of his admirers into the area within the railing, so they might miss nothing. "That is the usual and expected outrageous tactics of this gentleman," he shouted, pointing a finger at Gentry. He then proceeded to denounce the dismissal as "a contemptible outrage" and charged Gentry with bringing the indictment "cheerfully, boastfully and without the slightest ground in the world."

Eagleton and Blodgett joined in a torrent of words, to which Judge Grodzki listened with a show of some fortitude, Eagleton said, "This man is an interloper. We only let him come in here because we wanted to prove he couldn't convict this defendant."

To which the Attorney-General replied, "That was very kind of you, I'm sure."

Several times Gentry sought to defend himself, once saying, "Don't you slander me; I do not have to stand for being slandered."

There was a short recess. Circuit Attorney Schweitzer joined with Gentry in asking for dismissal and Judge Grodzki said, "The case is dismissed. Mr. Bender can go home."

BROWNS TRADE JACOBSON TO ATHLETICS FOR OUTFIELDER BING MILLER

ST. LOUIS GETS YOUNGER MAN IN EXCHANGE

Both Are Right-Handed Batters—New Brownie Hit .318 in 124 Games Last Year.

By J. Roy Stockton.
William "Baby Doll" Jacobson, regular center fielder of the Browns since 1917, has been traded to the Philadelphia Athletics for Edmund John "Bing" Miller, also an outfielder. Business Manager Bill Friel of the St. Louis Americans announced this morning.

Miller, who is 25 years old, has been with the Athletics since 1922, the Athletics having obtained his services in a trade with the Washington club. Miller played in 143 games in 1925, hitting .336. The following year in 122 games he clumped to .299, but rallied in 1924 and batted .342 in 113 games. Last year he took part in 124 games and batted .318, giving him a grand batting average of .317 for his five years in the league.

Miller started in professional baseball as a pitcher and was with Clinton of the Central Association in 1915, 1916 and 1917. He had a tryout with the Detroit club in 1917, but was released on option. He served at Peoria, Atlanta, San Antonio and Little Rock before going to Washington. He is a right-handed batter.

Miller the Younger Man.

Jacobson is four years older than Miller, having been born in 1890. He has served nine years in the American League and has a grand batting average of .317, the same as Miller's for his five years.

Jacobson has batted over .300 for the last seven years. His best years were in 1920 when he batted .355 and 1921 when he hit .352.

While he has batted consistently during his major league career, Jacobson's forte is fielding. He is

In 1924 Jacobson set a new outfielding record for total chances accepted. Last spring he was a holdout until after the season opened, signing a contract in Ban Johnson's office.

Thus far this year Miller has outbatted Jacobson. Bing has played in 33 games and has made 29 hits in 91 times at bat for an average of .319. Jacobson has played 47 games and has an average of .285, with 49 hits in 172 times at bat. Jacobson usually hits around .250 or .280 until mid-summer and then starts a drive which puts him in the .300 class by the time the season ends.

Jones Shoots Two 66's in Practice For British Open

Walter Hagen Also Displaying Fine Form in Tryouts Abroad.

SUNNINGDALE, June 15.—The final day of practice before the qualifying round for the British open golf championship found Bobby Jones and George Von Elm, two of the American Walker Cup members at Sunningdale and Watts Gunn and Roland Mackenzie, two other members, at St. Anne's, where the championship will be played.

Jones started the galleries here by shooting a card of 66 on two successive days, on one of the three best island courses in England. Jones and Von Elm played Cyril Tolley and Abe Mitchell, the British stars, and beat them worse than Jones and Walter Hagen did at Moorpark, due largely to Jones' remarkable play. Bobby shot a 34 going out and with two holes in two coming back had a 32. His driving and putting were nearly perfect.

Interest in the Hagen-Mitchell match has been revived by Hagen's great round at Moorpark and the betting is mostly even though some wagers of five to four on Mitchell still are reported.

The odds on the open championship show Duncan and Mitchell are favorites at 10 to 1. Jones stands next at 16 to 1.

The American amateurs are in good health and are playing excellent golf.

St. Marks Wins Parochial Title

Loose Fielding Ruins Chances of St. Cecilia Nine—Score 10 to 2.

St. Marks nine captured the Parochial School League championship yesterday in rather easy fashion, defeating the St. Cecilia team, 10 to 2. Duvic, hurling for St. Marks, allowed only 3 hits and was largely instrumental in the overwhelming victory.

Errors at critical moments hurt the chances of the St. Cecilia nine. Eight misuses were charged to the losers.

the GREATER ST. LOUIS MARKET

The BILLIONAREA is more than a market name. It is a market condition. In addition to its unusual prosperity and growth, Greater St. Louis offers advertisers an annual purchasing power of over a BILLION dollars—one of the highest average purchasing powers per family of any city in America.

A Big Market at a Big Bargain

Automobile Advertising
in St. Louis shows the dominance of the Post-Dispatch in selling any and all products in The Billionarea. —

With four daily newspapers in St. Louis, the Post-Dispatch, in 1925, carried within 1% of as much automobile advertising as all other St. Louis newspapers combined.

WHAT is it that makes The Billionarea so attractive in its advertising and sales opportunities?

It is the extraordinary conjunction of two factors, which occurs only in one other metropolitan area. Those factors are: A high and rapidly increasing buying power of the people; and a newspaper that offers a low cost coverage of remarkable effectiveness.

The Billionarea is experiencing a tremendous commercial growth. It might be called a "boom" if it were not for the sound and fundamental character of the underlying reasons, which assure the continuation and expansion of this prosperity. [These reasons are fully covered in the books mentioned below.]

Throughout The Billionarea money is rolling into family pocket books as never before. Purse strings are loosened. Standards of living are rapidly on the rise. Money is being spent in unprecedented volume for commodities of every character.

The enterprising advertiser who wants to expand his market will find few such opportunities as those which exist in The Billionarea.

The opportunities are all the more attractive because of the low cost of effectively covering the market through the St. Louis Post-Dispatch alone. Without duplicating circulation or advertising cost, you may enter the home of practically every family of buying consequence in Greater St. Louis.

Greater St. Louis is a market large enough to be a real factor in any manufacturer's total volume of sales—a market of extraordinary prosperity and responsiveness to advertising. A really effective coverage at a rate so low will suggest to the advertiser the wisdom of special advertising action in The Billionarea thru its dominant newspaper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

The highest ranking P+D+C newspaper of The BILLIONAREA — the Greater St. Louis Market

The P+D+C Rating is the advertiser's micrometer for measuring both market and media.

"P" is population — people, families, the number of purchasing units. "D" is dollars — wealth production or per capita buying power. "C" is coverage or concentrated circulation—the ability of a medium to saturate its market with circulation assuring effectiveness in moving goods in volume.

The BILLIONAREA and the Post-Dispatch stand so high on these three counts as to offer advertisers the greatest P+D+C selling and advertising opportunity in America, with one exception.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reaches far more people, far more dollars and has far greater coverage of The BILLIONAREA than any other newspaper. The fact that both local and national advertisers recognize the Post-Dispatch as the most powerful selling force in the greater St. Louis Market, is proved by its volume of advertising, almost equal to that of all other St. Louis newspapers combined.

The P+D+C Manual and the Book of Information about The BILLIONAREA—the Greater St. Louis Market, will be mailed free to anyone interested in the advertising and sales opportunity of this market.

J. M. JENSEN LOSES FIGHT FOR RICHMOND HEIGHTS MAYORALTY

Judge McElhinney Overrules Motion to Set Aside Order Declaring E. J. Houlihan Elected.

James M. Jensen, "perpetual Mayor" of Richmond Heights, lost his last legal effort to obtain what would have been his eighth consecutive two-year term yesterday, when Circuit Judge McElhinney overruled his motion to set aside the Court's order declaring his opponent, Edward J. Houlihan, elected.

The returns of the election held April 6 showed Jensen was elected, 518 to 774. Houlihan contested, and a recount May 8 gave Houlihan the office by two votes, 798 to 796.

Jensen then filed his motion to set aside the Court's order following the recount, on the ground that the ballots had been tampered with after the count by Richmond Heights election officials and before the recount.

Man Dies From Gas

Lanigan was a printer. He had closed the windows and door of the room before turning on the gas. He was unable to tell police the cause of his action.

Drag River for Man's Body

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MEXICO, Mo., June 15.—Parties of searchers continued today to drag the Salt River near Florida for the body of Leroy Crump, 22, of Centralia, who drowned there Sunday. Crump, wearing a pair of hip boots, had just begun to run a trot line across the stream. He climbed astraddle a log, and losing his footing, fell into the water. His boots caused him to sink, filling rapidly with water.

WILD GEESE

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

At Oeland no game laws were taken into account except those which the settlers agreed among themselves were good. Fishing in the lakes of those who were fortunate enough to have them on their land was open to those who did not have them, most of the year round. It had become such an old custom that the owner's right in the matter had been lost sight of. So that Caleb saw no reason why he should humor the sentimental Bjarnasson to the extent of doing without fish, when this food saved him dollars' worth of meat. He resolved that during the coming autumn there should be no lack of fish and he decided whether the bodies of the two that had been drowned were recovered or not. It was well to fix this idea in the mind of Bjarnasson at once, although there would be little time for fishing during the summer, and no way of keeping the fish more than a day.

On a morning before having begun, he sent Martin to the lake. Martin was dubious, and as reluctant as he had ever been to carry out any order of Caleb's. Nevertheless, he went, fish pole and tackle in the cart behind him, as well as a small net which Caleb had borrowed from one of the halfbreeds at Yellow Post. Martin realized the significance of that net. It was that which he balked against particularly, though he asked nothing.

It meant that Caleb intended selling what fish he could not use, probably to Johanneson at Yellow Post. Martin's long face lengthened as he drove down the road westward. There were ruthless things a man might do honorably, such as violating another's property to secure needed food for those dependent upon him. But what he had been sent out to do was neither honorable nor necessary.

As he struck the open road, his eyes turned toward the plain lying on the south. This was Caleb's cattle land, broad and flat, with two good bluffs for shade. The great herd was scattered over it with an intermingling of horses. The milch cows were kept separate, in the richer pastures, and the calves were kept in the poorer ones. Dull anger surged through Martin as he regarded this manifestation of his father's cupidity. The great herd meant the sacrifice of one dream after another. There would be no new house in the future, no year following the herd would have doubled in size—and perhaps the flax lying to the east would have stretched still farther, like a greedy hand gathering the earth.

Martin loved the land, but there was something else in him that craved expression. It had been represented by the dream of the new house, the dream of the thing that was to be made by his own hands, guided by his own will. Now that, too, was gone. Nothing to do but to go on with a dream that might have been kinder of Caleb to have deceived him until the end of the harvest—there would then have been a vision to ease the burden. A false vision was better than none.

There was no rebellion in Martin's soul—only a sense of passive resentment that did not often rise above the hard, surrounding shell of endurance in which he had grown. Had he been asked he could not have told why he endured the fact was that he did not even recognize the thing in which he lived as endurance. And yet he understood Judith better than he did Ellen. The subjected manhood in him admired Judith, although it never found expression toward her.

Judith had not known he was going to the lake. He half hoped that she would not find it out, if he came back without fish. Her eyes had of late held a contempt that one had to turn away from.

At the Bjarnassons', Martin decided to go against Caleb's intentions. Instead of taking the road that led around to the opposite side of the lake, he drove into the farm yard, where young Erik was unharnessing his horses.

"Don't any fishing yet?" he asked Erik, who had come up to shake hands with him before he went.

Erik shook his head soberly. "Not a sign of one of them," he said in reply. "We do not fish ourselves, yet. Soon we shall drag the whole bottom again, and maybe we shall find. Until now no."

"Not after freeze-up, either?"

"If we find, yes. If not—no."

"Lots of fish goin' to waste, don't you think?"

Erik shrugged. "Caleb Gare—he should not want for fish. The poor homesteader round, maybe so. Caleb Gare, he have beef, pork, sheep, chicken—he should not want for the fish, too."

Martin looked away. "No," he said slowly, "only for a change."

"You go up to the house," Erik went on heartily. "They give you coffee."

"No, thanks," Martin answered, clucking at the horse. "Got to go along."

the main road or branch off below the willows to the road that went around the lake. There was in this Icelandic family, a sort of grand faith in the honor of human kind.

Martin did not take the lake road. He thought with self-satisfaction of his original plan in coming here—to slip down below the willows and around the bend to the cove where he would not be seen by the Bjarnassons. Such had been Caleb's instructions—given in full belief that they would be obeyed. Perhaps the Bjarnassons would have the truth when he arrived home. Caleb would be in a towering rage, which would express itself in a gentle sarcasm and later in a strange and sinisterly effective abuse of Amelia, that Martin never understood.

But he was glad that he had followed his own instincts not to violate the sentiment of the Icelanders. He had felt the hidden scorn of Caleb Gare in Erik's words. Now, perhaps, the Icelanders would have reason to think better of a Gare.

Amelia came out of the house as he was unharnessing the horse. Her face bore a shade of distress, and Martin guessed what she was looking forward to. There would be trouble somewhere—all under the surface. It would gather like a storm when the children were not around.

"You didn't get the fish?" she asked, looking into the back of the wagon.

"No," Martin answered shortly. "They're not fishing yet."

Amelia left him and went to the garden, where she counted the new tomatoes on the vines. They would not be ripe until late in August. The vines were still delicate and needed careful pinching. Amelia stood with one hand on her hip, the other on her chin, trying to think of something for supper to take the place of fish. Caleb had planned on having fish. Anything else, no matter how good, would not be fish. She would have to prepare something especially savory to lessen his disappointment. She would have new carrots and chicken—no, they had had chicken the Sunday before, and Caleb disapproved of killing them while they were laying. She would have to be preserved for the fall market—something else would have to do. Amelia pulled an apronful of new carrots, and went into the house to consider.

Caleb came home late that evening from the Icelandic store, with whom he had arranged for a threshing crew. He had not intended that he would be late, and supper was held over an hour. The omelet and bacon was cold, the potatoes soggy from being heated over. Judith had seized the food off the stove and had gone out. She had not returned.

In silence everybody sat down to the table. Caleb's eye fell on the dishes before him. Without a word he began to serve the food. "Did you get the fish?" he asked, for the first of September? Amelia asked, after a long silence.

Caleb helped himself to butter and passed it to Lind before he answered. "Yes—yes," he said, then, as if he had just recollected that she had asked the question.

Characteristically, he made no reference to the absence of fish. Suddenly he threw a sharp glance around the table.

"Where's Jude?" he asked.

"One of her calves is missing," Ellen told him, for the sake of Amelia.

"No doubt—no doubt," he murmured, and went on eating as though there was no one else present.

After the meal, Lind went out and walked down the road to look for Judith. Ellen and Charlie had the milkings to do.

"Got cold feet, eh?" "Fraid of a couple of dead ones like the rest of 'em," Caleb sneered at Martin.

"You'll bring back another story before freeze-up, or—we'll do without meat. Think I've been keepin' the lot of ye for nothin' all these years, while I've been breakin' my back to make a living out of this soil? A pack of good for nothings I've got for it!"

"The Bjarnassons ain't fishin' themselves, yet," Martin said in a low voice. "And I won't until they let us."

Eh? You won't? We'll see if you won't! Hm!"

He went out with his lantern clucking to himself. As he moved along the cow path into the pasture and across it to the flax field, he speculated upon some way of compelling Martin to fish when the cooler weather came. It was not altogether that he wanted the satisfaction of taking fish from the obdurate Bjarnasson; it was also that he must quell any rising independence in Martin. If he started at 20 to losing a will of his own, at 25 there would be no holding him. He must think of some thing.

Caleb walked in the approaching dusk like a thing that belonged infinitely to the earth, his broad, squat body leaning low over it. Presently his mind was far from the annoying trifles that symbolized his family. Before him glimmered the silver gray sheet of the flax—rich, beautiful, strong. All unto itself, complete, demanding everything, and in turn yielding everything—growth of the earth, the only thing on the earth worthy of respect of homage.

North of it lay the muskeg, black and evil and potted with water holes. Aronson ought to fence the rotten land now that it was his. Mark and Lind agreed to meet at the Sandbos until the return of the Klovacz.

"School-ma'ams must toe the line," she laughed at Mark. "I just couldn't stand a scene. That would finish me as far as earning my own living for the rest of the season is concerned."

"I would like that," Mark urged. "I really have a little money of my own, somewhere."

But Lind would not listen to him. She would stay conscientiously to the end of the term.

At the Sandbos the chokecherry trees were bending over in winered arches. Sven picked Lind a tin-canful of them, and she and Mark ate them until their mouths were puckered and dry. Mrs. Sandbo enjoyed having the teacher and her "boy" as she called Mark, around, and often served them coffee and some trifle. At heart Mrs. Sandbo was sound, and as she became more used to Lind's visits, she did not ply her usual busy questions.

The teacher walked with Mark to the edge of Lind's Slough, where they knelt and picked tiny black snails off the reeds. Lind found little waxy water lilies growing there, but the mud was too soft at the edge of the swamp for her to reach out and get them.

"They would die right away after I got them, anyway," she said to Mark, stepping back to firm ground.

"Yes, and they would be mostly long slimy roots," he consoled her. They walked half a mile or so to a little sunny knoll at the edge of Gare's timber. Here they sat down, Lind spreading her pale, billowy dress out about her. In a little while Mark stretched himself out full length, shading his eyes with his hand and nibbling at a straw.

The grass below them leaned up the hill, like the smoothly combed hair of a person's head. Lind regarded it curiously. The air was stung with humming insects, poised like little black periods in the light. Occasionally a blue-bottle sailed majestically past, the tissue of its wings gathering the sun. A droning bee blundered into a swarm of tiny, jiggling gnats, disentangled itself and soared lazily on to a distant flower, unconscious of the excitement it had caused.

Amelia left him and went to the garden, where she counted the new tomatoes on the vines. They would not be ripe until late in August. The vines were still delicate and needed careful pinching. HOUSEHOLD HYGIENE.

THE hygiene conventions now going on in Germany stir interest in the subject in America. The subjects cover all human needs. Without awaiting the hearing of final results, we can start things in our own homes now. Where and how you sleep, how and where you eat, and how you clean house are good starting points.

Have your comfortable beds, light but warm bedding, clean mattresses and fresh pillows? See to it that these things are attended to at once and for all beds in the house. The windows at night should be fully screened, winter in summer and summer in winter.

Now as to eating. All foods should be taken care of in a sanitary manner, kept dry and cool or iced as the case may be; refrigerators should be kept absolutely clean, the food cared for as soon as it arrives in the home. Foods must be properly stored, and clean, washed china and pottery, well-cleaned kitchen utensils, and no food saved over for economy's sake that is not in perfect condition.

Sunlight, air and cleanliness are necessities for a healthy home. In selecting a spot on which to build, see that drainage of the ground is perfect, high enough for sewerage to work perfectly, no standing water about and that foliage is not close enough to the house to create dampness. In selecting an apartment, make sure that a good draught can be obtained right through the rooms, that the walls are good, walls painted instead of being papered if possible, and as little ventilation from inner courts as can be managed. These few suggestions will help in avoiding evils if followed and prepare the way for adoption of greater hygienic methods discovered at the big convention.

TO WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whiteners, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Near and Far.

OH, SOMETIMES near is far away and sometimes far is near; who knows upon what roads we stray when others think us here? Who knows just where the pathways wind whereon we love to tread, or what of loveliness we find that seemed long spent and fled? Oh, sometimes near is very far: the eyes that smile in mine may be as distant as a star against the sunset's wine. The house across the way may be girl round with barriers grim, removed by life or destiny as far as earth's last rim. And sometimes far is very near: across wide lands and seas the heart can feel a presence dear, can sense loved melodies. And so it is men have no fear, but wander where they will; the seas and deserts are not drear, for love goes with them still.

It is not a greater point of wisdom to discover knowledge than to hide ignorance.—Quarles.

Live virtuously, and you cannot die too soon, nor live too long.—Russell.

Wash and cut up, without paring or seeding, three dozen tart apples and put them into the preserve kettle with two quarts of water. Cook until the apples are as soft, then strain off the juice, straining through a piece of wet cheesecloth. Wash the kettle, return eight cups of the juice to it with a quart of freshly washed mint leaves, and eight cups of sugar. Let melt together and come to boiling point, then cook gently for about 15 minutes, try on a cold plate. Strain into the jelly glasses.

A Fashion Model's Diary

She Dances a Dance Frock.

"I HAVE made a new dance frock that I am sure I feel as if I were in one of the girls' commodes."

"Then come along and see it," Madame invited, "I am feeling that she has done a really like a girl."

"To tell the truth, I am great rage for black dance frocks is upon us, them, and so many more better in black than in else."

"Well, I'm a client to have at least a frock in her summer wardrobe," Madame answered. "The effective, and they are indispensable for any woman going abroad or who plans to visit. Then for the stay in town, there's a black frock for dinner wear."

Gaby marched off to her black dress, putting on her slippers with black checked backs to them to go.

Madame simply won't go on any of the manikins who is wearing the proper accessories. She says she can get the full effect of a dress and the color is arranged accordingly. We usually use the manikin's room for a dash of powder and a stick before we model for while, and later she came show us the dress. It was as Madame had wanted her on so she could arrange a chiffon drape that was from one armhole.

The material was chiffon shaped inset stripes of white lace, and it fell becomingly, an underling edged with a "Very flattering," I said.

"Madame likes it so well may make the same model a flesh slip," Gaby told.

Then a client came in, declared that black frock, which was all over the city for.

Jarvis, faces charges of violating the Federal prohibition law.
The yacht was seized by a Coast
Guard patrol in the York River Monday night after she had returned from a trip to the Gulf of Mexico estate of C. K. G. Billings.

Chief Boatwain Jester, commander of the patrol boat, charged that he found 30 cases of liquor aboard.

Fred M. Alger, brother of Russell A. Alger, owner of the yacht, said at their home in Detroit last night that the vessel had been leased for three months to Billings.
Members of the Billings family and a party of friends were said to be aboard when it was seized.
They all elected to stay on the boat last night rather than suffer
the city heat.

Carrying a crew of 24 men and having cabin accommodations for 10 persons, the yacht arrived in Hampton Roads Saturday from New York and proceeded to the Billings estate.

Cornelius Kingsley Garrison Billings succeeded his father as president of the People's Gas Light & Ice Co., of Chicago in 1927. This company was reorganized, with Billings remaining as president, from 1927 to 1931. He was chairman of the board from 1931 to 1931, since when he has devoted his attention to his investments which have made him a multimillionaire.

Capitalist's Yacht Shot at; Owner Accuses Patrol.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 14.—Shots fired at the private yacht Aloha,
on the way to meet the Crown Prince of Sweden at Newport, R.
I., presumably by a liquor boat chaser, have been made the subject of a protest to Washington, and altered provisions being made by a Coast Guard patrol boat at Miami, Fla.,
also is under investigation.

The Aloha, a large, square-rigged craft, owned by Arthur Curtiss James, New York capitalist, was fired on yesterday opposite Watch Hill, while on the way from New York, one shot crossing the bow and a second narrowly missing the bow watchman. The shots came from an unseen vessel on the shoreward side. After an officer of the Aloha had called out, identifying the yacht, it was allowed to proceed without further hindrance.

The firing by Coast Guard patrol boat No. 237, which was reported to have endangered the lives of several hundred persons at Miami last Saturday, is being investigated by Coast Guard officers. Twenty or more of shots were fired by the patrol boat as it chased a liquorladen motor boat. A brawl in the river between the two boats placed several hundred persons in Fort Dallas Park in direct line of fire.
The liquor runner escaped.

The Dade County grand jury,
which investigated the affair, adjourned yesterday without making any recommendation.

Andrews Defends Use of Guns by Coast Guard.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 14.—Defending the use of guns by guard officers in run patrol work, Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement,
gave assurance today that firing
on water craft would be resorted to only in emergencies and when there was no apparent danger to the lives of those aboard.

Andrews said he had no official information about the shots fired
at the yacht Aloha off Watch Hill.
He pointed out that standing orders were issued some time ago directing coast guard officers to be most careful in the use of their armament.

"Our men are charged with the protection of shipping and the enforcement of the law," the Secretary said today, "and their problem is difficult, to say the least.
They have the unpleasant task of stopping perhaps as many as 1,000 vessels a week. If an apparent rum runner ignores their commands, they must shoot, so long as life is not endangered."
